MRS. BURNS GOT POISON

SHOW DRUG RECORD IN COURT

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Nov. 17.—Walter A. Chipman, a Manchester druggist, testified today at the trial of Mrs. Mary A. Burns of Nottingham, accused of the murder of her husband, Frank Burns, that a week before Christmas in 1914 Mrs. Burns purchased two ounces of cyanide of potassium from him, and that he got her signature as required by law.

He produced the book and pointed to Mrs. Burns' signature in it.

Burns died of cyanide poisoning.

Mrs. Burns was unmoved by Chipman's testimony. She retained the same composure that she has manifested the previous two days of the trial. Her mother, brother and sisters were in court.

TELLS OF PURCHASE.

The courtroom was crowded at the opening of today's session. Mrs. Caroline Simpson, who was a witness for the State last yesterday, was recalled and testified further as to her friendship for Mrs. Burns.

Druggist Chipman was then called to the stand as a witness for the government. He was questioned by County Solicitor Albert H. Hatch.

Q.—Did Mrs. Burns call at your place of business in Manchester in 1914 to make a purchase? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did she purchase? A.—Cyanide of potassium.

Q.—Will you tell us just what she said? A.—She said she came for some cyanide of potassium and I asked her for what she wanted it. She said it was for use by her brother, a jeweler in Raymond. As I thought what she said was so and as other jewelers had bought cyanide of potassium, I weighed out two ounces for her, which I put in a bottle. I labeled the

17,000,000 Visitors at Panama Fair

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—The total attendance at the Panama Pacific exhibition will reach 17,000,000 by Friday noon and the grand total before the close of the exposition on December 4 will be more than 18,000,000, according to estimates made public today by E. C. Conroy, chief of the exposition department of admissions. Daily totals, he said, are now exceeding expectations.

Rigors of Winter at Niagara Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 17.—The Niagara frontier is having its first taste of real Winter. An inch of snow covers the ground. About the falls the spray is freezing to the trees, making ice scenery.

President Again Makes Plea to Save Hillstrom

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—President Wilson today telegraphed Governor Spry of Utah, urging him to "reconsider" the case of Joseph Hillstrom, the I. W. W. poet sentenced to die next Friday at Salt Lake City. The President has no power to pardon Hillstrom, whose fate rests solely with the Utah government. Following is President Wilson's telegram:

"With unaffected hesitation, but with a very earnest conviction of the importance of the case, I again venture to urge upon Your Excellency the justice and advisability of a thorough reconsideration of the case of Joseph Hillstrom."

Boys to Pay Fine for Judge Lindsey

DENVER, Col., Nov. 17.—Wards of Judge Ben B. Lindsey's juvenile court, including a number of Lindsey's "bad boys," have started a movement to collect 50,000 pennies from the children of Denver with which to pay the $500 fine imposed upon Judge Lindsey by District Judge Perry, who held him in contempt of court for refusing to testify what twelve-year-old Cal Wright had told him regarding the slaying of the boy's father.

Denies Eugenia Kelly Is Married

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Denial that her daughter Eugenia had married "Al" Davis, professional tango dancer, was made here today by Mrs. Helen M. Kelly. "My daughter is not married to Davis, nor will she be," said Mrs. Kelly.

Davis, whose wife secured a divorce from him yesterday, is said to be in New Jersey.

Mayor Mitchel's Condition Good

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Further improvement was shown today by Mayor Mitchel, who was operated upon for appendicitis at the Roosevelt Hospital Monday night.

A bulletin issued by Dr. Charles H. Peck and Dr. Woodruff L. Post at 9:45 o'clock shows that Mr. Mitchel's temperature and pulse are nearly normal.

German War Vessel Enters Neutral Zone

By International News Service.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Another invasion of neutral waters by a German warship is reported in a dispatch from Copenhagen today. It says that a German torpedo boat chased the British steamer Toolma in Swedish territorial waters, but that a Swedish torpedo boat forced the Germans to abandon the chase.

'Narrow Gauge' Men Will Dance Tonight

The proceeds will go into the sick fund. The march will be led by Melvin O. Adams, president of the "Narrow Gauge."

KAISER TO DIRECT IN BALKANS

PARIS, Nov. 17.—The first joint meeting of the Joint British committee and French War Board was held today, in line with the policy of closer operations agreed upon by the English and French governments.

Premier Asquith, David Lloyd George, minister of munitions; A. J. Balfour, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Minister, are here, as is General Joffre, the French commander-in-chief.

The Balkan situation was discussed thoroughly. Not only the military needs, but the diplomatic phase was canvassed by the conferees.

By PERCY THOMAS.
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The supreme German war lord, Emperor William, is now said to be directing the operations of the Teutonic allies in the Balkans personally. One of the outstanding features of the near eastern situation today is the presence there of the Kaiser and Earl Kitchener, the British Secretary of State for War.

It is reported in a Reuter dispatch from Athens that Field Marshal von Mackensen, who directed the Austro-German drive through northern Serbia, will go to the Dardanelles to take command of the Turkish and German forces.

A dispatch from Bucharest states that a Russian fleet consisting of three superdreadnoughts and thirteen other warships is bombarding the Bulgarian Black Sea coast.

BATTLE ON BIG LINE.

Over a line that stretches more than half way across New Serbia a bloody battle is raging with victory favoring now one side and again the Willima Greenway, aged three years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Greenway, died today at her parents' home, No. 287 Fuller street, Dorchester, from burns received when the little girl fell into a tub of scalding water yesterday morning in the kitchen of the Greenway home.

Cambridge Man in Chicago Asks to Be Arrested

Lyman H. Brooks of Cambridge today walked up to a Chicago policeman and asked to be arrested. He said he had stolen $181 from his employers.

"I ran away from my wife and daughter," he told the policeman. "I had one wild night in New York cabarets and got here penniless. I was just thinking I would kill myself."

Inquiry of the Cambridge police brought the information that Lyman had told the truth. His employers, the police say, are sorry for the young man's plight, and have declared they will not prosecute him.

Cambridge friends of the man will send him money to bring him back to Cambridge to his family.

Praises Methods of "Billy" Sunday

"Billy" Sunday's religious methods were praised today at the Laymen's Convention in Lorimer Hall by the Rev. Dr. Joseph Cochran of the Presbyterian Board of Missions. "There were many young men in Philadelphia going down to Hell and Sunday just turned those young men around. He will do the same thing in Boston," said Dr. Cochran.

FIANCEE DEFENDS PASTOR

LEWISTON, Me., Nov. 17.—The Board of Stewards of the Methodist Church of South Auburn meet tonight to take action on the resignation of the Rev. Miles Beckwith, their pastor, which was tendered immediately after his arrest, Saturday night, on a complaint charging a serious offense, preferred by Mrs. Marcia B. Golding, an attractive divorcee of but three or four weeks.

The warrant for the pastor's arrest was served by Deputy Sheriff E. E. Schard of Auburn, Saturday night.

The pastor was unable to secure bail immediately, and was locked up in the county jail, until friends, quickly summoned to his assistance, appeared ready to furnish the necessary $500 bail in order to permit him to reach his home, where he is also pastor of the North Dowaat Methodist Episcopal church this Sunday night as usual.

Miss Smith is engaged to marry Rev. Elizabeth E. Voumus, the daughter of Dr. S. A. Voumus, a well-to-do citizen of North Fayerad. In spite of the charges against him, the pastor retains that Miss Voumus refuses to be released from her promise to marry him.

SUDDENLY DIVORCED.

"I am to declare my unwavering faith in Mr. Beckwith," she stated, "to state that I place no little belief in the story that we will be married next month, just as if these unfortunate charges had never been made."

In wedding, who is about the same age as her pastor, was divorced three or four weeks ago.

Answer to the queries that immediately commence to flood him, concerning the news of the church meeting and its purpose had become known, the Rev. Milton Beckwith issued the following statement:

"In view that I offered Mrs. Goddin $900 to drop the case. It was not mine. I am guilty of the offence on which she charges me, but only in an attempt to avoid the scandal."

SECRET MARRIAGE.

"I am afraid of being put on the said Letter. List of clergymen, which was commenced after the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson of Cambridge had paid the penalty of his crime. The list is kept by a clergyman in New York, and on it are the names of the clergymen who have betrayed their trust. It brands the clergymen whose names are listed as unfit to represent the church and the people. 'Mrs. Godding told me that she wished me to marry her. But I could not very well do that. She came to me last Friday and told me for the first time of the responsibility with which she charged me.

"I know that once my name was placed on that Scarlet Letter List it could make no difference if I confessed a paragon of virtue. I could never again hold a pastorate. But the one for hushing it up has passed. I shall fight the case now to the end."

Buffalo Traffic Delayed by Snow

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Five inches of snow fell here. The collapse of wires and poles caused delay to railroad traffic between here and Niagara Falls.

IS FELLED BY RIFLE SHOT AT PLAY

Chester McKay was accidentally shot by his chum, Clyde McKay, in the basement of their home at No. 5 Ellis street, Lynn, shortly after noon today. The boy has been unconscious since he was found on a couch a few moments after the accident. At the Lynn hospital the doctors fear there is little chance for the boy to live.

When the police arrived at the McKay home they found Clyde, who led them to the basement. He said:

"Chester and I came down in the basement after school let out for the noon recess. After we had played around for a few minutes Chester went down into the further end of the basement and sat on the couch. I found the twenty-two-calibre rifle and when I attempted to sight the target which is overhead of the couch the rifle caught in my coat and discharged.

"When I looked towards the couch a few seconds after the rifle went off I saw Chester lying down and hollering.

"This is the third accidental shooting of boys in Greater Boston in the past two weeks, others being in Melrose and Dorchester.

Nashua Plants to Reopen on Monday

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 17.—With a reduced schedule from fifty-five to forty-five hours per week, the plants of the Nashua Manufacturing Company and the Jackson Manufacturing Company, which have been closed seven weeks because of the textile workers' strike, will reopen Monday. In a statement given out today it was announced all former employes could have back their old positions.

Pitcher Shaw May Die from Wounds

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 17.—James Shaw, a young pitcher of the Washington American League club, was brought to St. Francis Hospital suffering from a gunshot wound that may prove fatal. While hunting near Greensburg a few weeks ago he discharged a shotgun and received a full charge in the right side of his face.

Inch of Snow Falls in Rochester, N. Y.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Rochester received its second installment of Winter this morning, when an inch of snow fell. The temperature was the lowest of the season, 24 above zero.

Leominster Man a Suicide in New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—George Copper of Leominster, Mass., upon his arrival at the Grand Central station from his home town today, went to one of the washrooms and shot and killed himself. A search of his clothing disclosed a photograph of a young woman with Copper's name on it.

SUBMARINE HITS SHIP LADEN WITH SICK AND DYING

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Two hundred wounded British soldiers were drowned when the hospital ship Anglia was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine in the English Channel yesterday. The news became known for the first time this evening.

The Anglia had on board 400 wounded, 300 of whom were confined to cots. Many of the wounded were rescued by boats from a vessel in the vicinity. One of the boats filled with survivors sank with all on board.

Third Italian Liner Sunk by a Submarine

By International News Service.

PALERMO, Italy, Nov. 17.—Torpedoed by a submarine in the Mediterranean, the Italian steamer Ancona has been sunk, it was announced here today. All the passengers of the steamer were saved. No information as to the fate of the crew has been received, but it is thought that the sailors have been rescued.

The submarine is said to have been an Austrian vessel. It is stated that the captain of the steamer was given warning before a torpedo was fired and had time to get his passengers off.

The Ancona is the third Italian steamer sunk by a submarine, the others being the Ancona and Firenze.

Built in 1884, the Ancona displaced 2,759 tons and was owned by the Societa Italiana Di Servizi Marittimi. It was 299 feet long and 37 feet in width. Its home port was Venice.

Springfield Car Shares Approved

The Public Service Commission today approved an issue of 3,172 shares of capital stock, par value $317,200, by the Springfield Street Railway Company.

Judge Knowlton, 76 Years Old, Operated Upon

By International News Service.

Marcus P. Knowlton, former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, was operated on today at the New England Baptist Hospital in Roxbury. A bulletin issued this afternoon stated his condition was satisfactory, but that because of his age his case must be regarded as serious. The bulletin follows:

"Judge Knowlton was operated on this morning. The operation went smoothly. On account of his age, the outlook must be regarded as serious, though his present condition is entirely satisfactory.

(Signed) Hugh Cabot, M. D.
Everett A. Hale, M. D.
George F. C Bulger, M. D."

The distinguished jurist was taken to the hospital for observation. Judge Knowlton is seventy-six years old, and his service on the Massachusetts bench was the longest in Massachusetts jurisprudence.

Monroe, Pugilist, Loses Hand in War

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 17.—Jack Monroe, former prize fighter, who went to the war with Princess Pat's regiment, has lost his right hand. A letter from Monroe was received today. He is in the Netley Hospital in England, where he will shortly undergo a second operation. His right hand was wounded at Armentieres and it was necessary to remove it. Monroe once fought a four-round exhibition draw with Jim Jeffries.

SAY MRS. BURNS MADE POISON PURCHASE

bottle "Poison." Then I got her signature.

KEEP POISON SALE RECORD.

Q.—Does the law require you to keep a correct account of all poisons sold? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you keep that account in a book? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you have her signature in a book? A.—Yes.

Q.—Have you that book? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where is it? A.—I have it here. County Solicitor Hatch looked at a signature pointed out by Chipman. Then he handed it to the stenographer to take the name. No objection to the book being introduced as evidence was raised.

Dr. Charles G. Bancroft, superintendent of the New Hampshire State Hospital for the Insane at Concord testified. He was questioned by the Attorney-General.

Q.—In May last did Mrs. Burns come to the hospital? A.—She came on May 19 and remained until September 3.

Q.—How frequently did you see her and what examinations of her did you make? A.—I saw her on an average of once a week. I saw her personally, and in addition received reports from those who had to do with her. In that way I practically got a daily report of her condition.

Q.—Did you examine her yourself? A.—Yes. She was examined first by my assistant; I examined her after him.

Q.—As the result of your examination and the report which your assistants gave you, to what conclusions did you come? (Objection by Attorney Bartlett.)

SAYS WOMAN WAS SANE.

Judge Pike: "Will you leave the question that way?"

Attorney-General. "If my brother wants it in another form—"

Bartlett: "If it is legal."

Q.—I'll frame it this way:

As a result of your examination and observation of this woman to what conclusion did you come? (Objection by Bartlett.)

Q.—As a result of your examination, to what conclusion did you come? A.—As a result of my personal examination and observation, I arrived at the conclusion that she was sane.

Q.—Was there any evidence that she was a person who had recovered from insanity? (Objection by Bartlett.)

Judge Pike: "He may answer."

Bartlett asked that his objection be saved.

Judge Pike: "Answer from your own observation, doctor."

A.—I found she was not a case of a person who had recovered. She was sane and had not been insane.

Q.—Did the reports confirm or disaffirm the conclusion which you reached? (Bartlett objects.)

Judge Pike: "Certain hearsay reports?"

Attorney-General.—I will not take up too much time going into this.

Q.—Have you a medical staff? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did your medical assistants and yourself examine her at any time? A.—She was examined at some length by the entire staff.

Q.—Is common, ordinary jealousy insanity, if that term was used? A.—No, sir; I don't understand it so.

Judge Pike—What is insanity, doctor; a diseased mind?

A.—Yes, sir. It's either a functional change or may be due to the organic construction of the brain.

'DRY' FIGHT BY BORAH STIRS PARTIES

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Politicians of both the great parties now in Washington were greatly concerned today over the open espousal of nation-wide prohibition by United States Senator William F. Borah, of Idaho. As a leading candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, Borah's action is accepted as injecting the liquor question into the next campaign.

This has been the one thing that the Republican and Democratic leaders have all along sought to avert. Even so ardent an advocate of temperance as William Jennings Bryan has side-stepped so far as next Fall's campaign is concerned, and has taken the position that it should not be made an issue until 1920.

Borah's advocacy naturally will attract to him the solid strength of the drys, and while they will, very properly, not be sufficient in numbers to nominate him, they will be able to lead a fight to have a prohibition plank inserted in the national platform which will cause a serious difference of opinion among the convention delegates.

It is admitted that if prohibition is considered by the Republican Convention it will also have to be taken up by the Democrats.

The opening gun in the fight will be fired in Washington, where an effort is to be made early in the Congressional session to enact legislation making the District of Columbia prohibition territory.

The temperance advocates have been conducting a nation-wide campaign among Senators and Congressmen to attain such a result, and they are confident that if they can prevent such a law being strangled in committee it must pass.

$1,000,000 IS LEFT YALE BY HOTCHKISS

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 17.—Yale University will receive $1,000,000 under the will of Justus S. Hotchkiss of this city, which was filed for probate today.

This is the residue of the estate after about $700,000 in gifts to servants and relatives and friends. It is to be applied as follows:

One-third to the Yale Law School, one-third to the academical department and the other third to the School of Religion.

To Florence W. Sargent, Harriet W. Swan of Lowell, Mass.; Helen B. Gilman of Worcester, Fanny W. Kingsbury of Brookline, Mass., and Marion W. Appleton of Brookline, Mr. Hotchkiss leaves all his household furniture and personal effects.

Henry H. Townsend, Ray Townsend, F. Stuart Hotchkiss, Helen H. Garrison and Elizabeth H. Ely of this city, cousins, receive $50,000 each; Roger S. Baldwin of St. Augustine, Fla., and Helen B. Gilman of Worcester, $50,000 each; Florence W. Sargent of this city and Harriet W. Swan of Lowell, Mass., $100,000 each; Maud L. Kingsbury of Brookline, Mass., $25,000, for use during her life; Mary P. Morse of New York, Cora M. Folsom of Hampton, Va., and Alice Walker of New Haven, $5,000 each; Alicia Bruton, $10,000; Fanny Porter, $1,000; Charles Kirkland, $1,000; Patrick H. Mahon, the house where he lives; Selina Moffett and Catherine Whalen, $1,000 each. The last six are family servants.

The General Hospital Society of Connecticut is given $100,000 to be known as the "Justus S. Hotchkiss" fund. The Home of the Friendless, the Hampton Agricultural and Normal Institute and Lowell House in New Haven are given $5,000 each.

Pawnbroker Sizes up Line of Marines

The marines on duty at the barracks were lined up in single file this afternoon and viewed by a pawnshop owner who was trying to identify the man who pawned a watch at his shop which was stolen from one of the marines. The marine was also robbed of two suits of civilian clothes. The pawnshop owner said he could not identify any marine as the person that pawned the watch.

Writes to Crimson About Chapel Bell

That others besides Harvard undergraduates are rudely awakened by the chapel bell which is tolled each morning at 7 o'clock is the claim of a Harvard graduate of the class of 1908, who writes the Crimson as follows:

"Others besides undergraduates feel the daily nuisance of the 7 o'clock bell. I am confident that townspeople a mile and more from the yard are similarly imposed upon."

FR. LEE FIRM IN WITHDRAWAL AT LIBRARY

Rev. James Lee, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception of Revere, who resigned from the Board of Trustees of the Revere Public Library following the discharge of Miss Margaret McCarthy as assistant librarian, today declared that his resignation was final and that he would not reconsider it.

Rev. Father Lee said that he knew two weeks ago that Miss McCarthy was to be dismissed, and that Rev. Nelson S. Burbank, pastor of the Revere First Baptist Church, and Ralph T. Kimball, the other two trustees, had pleaded with him to name the young woman's successor.

Rev. Father Lee said:

"The reports are misleading which say that Miss Margaret McCarthy, assistant librarian, was discharged after my resignation was received by the board. That is misleading, and I wish it understood that I knew two weeks ago that Miss McCarthy was to be discharged last Monday evening, for the reason that Rev. Mr. Burbank and Mr. Kimball, the other two members of the board, asked and pleaded with me to name a successor to Miss McCarthy, and told me that anyone that I would name would be appointed.

"This I refused to do, as I believed Miss McCarthy was a very capable woman.

"It is true that Mayor Curtis called me up on the telephone and asked me to reconsider my resignation. But my answer is final—No."

The pastor's resignation has caused a stir in Revere. Miss McCarthy's discharge is said to have resulted from friction between her and Miss Harriet Fenno, the librarian. Miss McCarthy had held the position for about four years. She is the organist in Rev. Father Lee's church.

BOSTON FOR SAVING DEFECTIVE BABIES

Case of Chicago Boy, Doomed by Surgeon and Parents to Die, Provokes Discussion.

A majority of Boston physicians oppose the decision of a Chicago surgeon to let a baby die because it is a defective.

Prominent Boston laymen also vigorously oppose the Chicago doctor's decree dooming the defective infant to die—"allowing nature to take its course," are the Chicago surgeon's words.

The Boston sentiment generally is that medical and surgical science should do all in its its power to keep the child alive.

Briefly, the problem raised by the Chicagoan is this:

Has a man a right to allow a defective human being to die without trying to save its life.

BABY DOOMED TO DIE.

The baby is four days old and is at the German-American hospital in Chicago. It is said to be a defective. The baby can be saved, but it will die because Dr. H. J. Haiselden, the surgeon in the case, has so decided.

At 9.45 today Dr. Haiselden issued the following bulletin:

"The Bollinger baby is growing gradually weaker. The brain conditions are such that convulsions may set in at any moment and bring death. In all probability the child will not outlive the day."

By operating, Dr. Haiselden says he could save the mite's life, but since its parents have left the matter to him, he says he has had the courage to decide not to add "its weight to the already large burden of defectives in the world."

Here are statements made today by Boston physicians and prominent laymen:

DR. HUGH CABOT, No. 75 Marlboro street, Back Bay:

It is not a physician's right to assume authority on the question of life; it is his duty to preserve life in every possible way. Regardless of any physical flaws or brain defects, everything known to science should be used to save the baby's life.

DR. L. VERNON BRIGGS, member of the State Board of Insanity:

By all means save the baby's life. Where there is life there is hope. We would do everything to save the life and then try by operation and other methods to remedy the mental and physical defects.

DR. E. E. SOUTHARD, Head Director of the Psychopathic Hospital:

Dr. H. J. Haiselden is taking a great responsibility upon himself in acting contrary to the established ethics of medicine. I can scarcely believe the facts as stated will be substantiated upon further investigation.

A physician has no right to allow death under any circumstances. It is our province to prolong life though it hurts. The physician is a highly specialized instrument serving society, and it is not his business to solve social and ethical problems.

If we ever do arrive at a time when it is considered legitimate to eliminate the unfit it should be done only by the decision of a committee made up of such leaders as President Emeritus Eliot, Cardinal O'Connell, President Wilson, former President Roosevelt, etc.

Doctors will not form such a tribunal.

DR. FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, health commissioner of the City of Boston.

I believe everything possible should be done to save the baby's life. It is a physician's duty to save life and not destroy it. We cannot judge what is going to happen, and some of the greatest men have been born defectives. By all means I would do everything to save the little one's life.

DR. FRANKWOOD E. WILLIAMS, executive secretary of the Mental Hygiene is session at Ford Hall:

I am sure I appreciate Dr. Haiselden's position and I feel certain he is sincere in what he is doing, but I cannot agree with him in the solution of the problem by his method. Defectives cannot be dealt with in this way. The same question arrives in the case of the insane. Some people when they make their first visit to an insane asylum are so impressed by their first glimpse of the patients that they inquire why all of them are not chloroformed. But this solution is just begging the question.

These questions are fundamental and must be dealt with scientifically and humanely. It does not do to sweep the surface of the problem in such a wholesale way.

Who would want to live in a community where those who had something wrong with them would be chloroformed?

If society is looking for a way to solve this problem it will not resort to Dr. Haiselden's method.

DR. A. F. CHRISTAN, No. 540 Marlboro street, Back Bay:

I believe a committee should be appointed in every State to work in connection with the Board of Health to handle just such cases. I am in favor of doing away with a child in some painless manner when it is an idiot, or mentally and mentally deformed that there is no chance for a brain to grow or a body to build up. I believe a committee of competent physicians should pass on all such cases.

REV. FREDERIC B. ALLEN, Diocesan House, Joy street:

This is one of the greatest moral questions of the age, and one that is most difficult to decide. Of course, we say that the decision of a physician is to save life when its possible to do so, but here is a case where a child is apparently doomed to misery and suffering for perhaps years, and the question now arises whether or not it is morally right to take the steps now, perform the operation that will keep the child in the world, or else let nature do its work and take it mercifully away.

REV. CORTLAND MYERS, pastor of Tremont Temple:

As a general principle of ethics, we have no right to take the life of another, but this case might be an exception. There is a long distance between the actual taking of life by another and the failing to operate on the part of a doctor or even the giving of medicine to sustain life, and this case may be one of the latter. The rule is that we shall not only refrain from taking life, but that we shall do all in our power to preserve it, but as every rule has its exception, in this case, this may be the exception to the rule.

JEFFREY R. BRACKETT, director of the Boston School for Social Workers.

Society is not yet ready to say what lives shall and shall not be put out. So far it is our duty to protect life, and we have not as yet knowledge enough to warrant the taking of life on the ground that it is unfit.

Our best work is in the field of prevention, and when we have solved the question of how to prevent the unfit from reproducing themselves, it may be time to go further.

We are studying every phase of abnormality, and out of such studies conclusions may come eventually that shall give an answer to the question brought up by the case in Chicago.

Chicago Surgeon Says Defective Baby Should Die

I am answerable to my own conscience. The little boy's boy's physical flaws would undoubtedly make him an invalid during his first year and probably a defective later, if he were allowed to live.

And so I'm doing what the parents have given me option on doing.

There is no brain development to register suffering. And pretty soon nature will make blank her mistake.—Statement of Dr. H. J. Haiselden.

FATHERLESS 9 APPEAL FOR 'HAPPINESS'

With the Campaign of Happiness only a few days old, the funds which will carry this concentrated Christmas happiness into thousands of homes have already passed the thousand-dollar mark.

The Christmas Basket Editor wants to say again that the watchword of this campaign is "GIVE." It does not matter whether you give a quarter or a check for a hundred dollars. GIVE, and give as much as you can, and you will have done well.

The little boys and girls of New England have a particular right to take part in this Campaign. For Christmas is the great Children's Festival of all the year. Even grown-ups are just children at Christmas time.

And so the Christmas Basket Editor wants every little boy and girl who can save up so much as one penny, and who feels he or she would be happier at Christmas for knowing that he or she had made some other little boy or girl happier, to send that penny or that nickel or that dime to help along the Campaign of Happiness.

The funds are coming swiftly, and for the most part they come in substantial checks from grown-up folks with great hearts. But the Christmas Basket Editor will not have a Merry Christmas unless when he studies the list of contributors he finds item after item like this:

Johnny Jones	$ 10
Sister Sue	15
Tom	05
Dick	15
Harry	25

One very particular reason why the Editor feels this way is because this Campaign of Happiness is a double-barrelled campaign, and if you can imagine a shot gun with one barrel that shoots forward and another that shoots back, you will have an idea of the way this campaign works.

You drop your two-dollar bill—or your dollar, your 50 cents—into the slot, and you pull the trigger, and BANG!

Some family that wanted a Christmas Dinner and some Christmas Happiness in a perfectly appalling way—gets it! a full charge of Happiness, right in the face.

GIVE ALL YOU CAN.

Just for a word of explanation. Each Christmas Dinner will cost $2. Every $2 contributed means a Christmas Dinner Basket for another family. Last year $13,000 was contributed, and some 7,000 baskets were distributed.

This year the Editor hopes there will be even more.

But don't imagine you must give just $2. If you can give twenty, or two hundred, or two thousand dollars—why then—GIVE. There are families enough in Boston who will need a Christmas Dinner your money must provide.

But if you can give less than $2—why then GIVE just the same. For others like yourself, in mounting numbers, will pyramid the dimes and quarters and halves into a surprisingly large number of Christmas Dinners for the Hungry.

A splendid proof of human sympathy and kindness came to the AMERICAN office today in the shape of a donation to the "Christmas Happiness Fund" from the members of the Elevators' and Porters' Union.

The officer of the union who brought the contribution does not wish his name published.

Ex-Congressman Samuel L. Powers says in making his contribution:

You did a great work last year, and I am very glad, indeed, to cooperate again this year.

Here are letters from two contributors:

Get the Habit of Drinking Hot Water Before Breakfast

Says we can't look or feel right with the system full of poisons.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's inside bath" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles which you would believe these hot water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which is eliminated every day, become food for the millions of bacteria living in the bowels. The quick result is poisons and toxins which, when absorbed into the blood, cause headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, furred tongue, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, injury like a ball of soft coal to diamonds.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply cannot get feeling right, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleaning, purifying and freshening, so limestone phosphate and hot water act on the stomach, liver and bowels, cleansing and purifying them from sour, fermenting matter and poisonous gases, and the hot water and limestone phosphate act directly upon the blood, through the absorbent tissues of the small intestines.

Be sure to tell your wife and children about this, as it is the best thing known for clear complexion, bright eyes, and to escape sick headache, biliousness, indigestion and constipation.—Advertisement.

BACKACHE KILLS!

Don't make the fatal mistake of neglecting backache and kidney ills. It's "simple little backache." There isn't any such thing. It may be the first warning that your kidneys are not doing their work properly, allowing all the poisons they should. If this is the case, go after the cause of that backache and do it quickly, or you may find yourself in the grip of an incurable disease.

GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules will give almost immediate relief from kidney and bladder troubles, which may be the unsuspected cause of general ill health. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are imported direct from the laboratories in Holland. They are prepared in correct quantity and convenient form to take. You can easily convince yourself of prompt relief, or your money will be refunded. Get them at any drug store, but be sure to insist on the GOLD MEDAL brand, and to take no other. Prices, 25c, 50c and $1.00.

Ft. Strong Soldier Victimized, He Says

Raphaelo Gaeto of Prince street and Fred A. Redmond, a soldier stationed at Fort Strong, were arraigned today by Patrolmen Welch and Sullivan of Court street station while in the middle of a street battle in Cornhill. According to Redmond, who admitted he came to the city last night in citizens' clothes for a good time, Gaeto was left with Redmond a security while Gaeto's friend went to pawn Redmond's overcoat. After an hour's wait Redmond proceeded to get the value of the coat from the security with his fists.

Honor Archbishop at Big Ceremonial

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—Graced by the presence of the reigning prince of the church of America, the most solemn, yet picturesque, Catholic ceremonial in the religious history of Philadelphia was unfolded today in the Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul. The occasion was the observance of the fiftieth natal golden jubilee of the Most Reverend Edmond F. Prendergast, D. D., Archbishop of the diocese of Philadelphia, and the fiftieth anniversary of dedication of the cathedral.

TAKE THIS MAN'S ADVICE!

TRY THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY

It always gives me pleasure to recommend anything that is right and so I feel it my duty to herald the praises of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

For years I was troubled with kidney disease and it was so intense that it was bedridden for days at a time. I gave up all hope, and doctors for miles around gave me no help. Incidentally I tried several patent remedies and at last tried Swamp-Root. From the first it gave me relief and it was no time before I was able to be up and around and now I am perfectly well and able to work as I used to before my terrible sickness. So now let me thank you for your wonderful discovery and take this opportunity to recommend it to any who suffer from kidney trouble.

Yours very truly,
WALTER SHIVER.

POPE MAY GIVE UP TEMPORAL POWER

By International News Service.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—"It is stated here that at the approaching consistory Pope Benedict XV. will substantially declare a renunciation of temporal power," said a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, from its Rome correspondent.

The pontiff will take this step, the correspondent adds, to guarantee his liberty in spiritual work and, with the consent of Italy, his presence in the general European conference to follow the war.

The correspondent makes no comment on his message, but it was taken here as indicating that steps toward peace were imminent.

Plan to Honor C. B. Kenfield of Customs Force

Plans are under way by the entire Boston Customs force and hundreds of Dorchester people to honor Inspector Chester B. Kenfield of Dorchester, who next week will complete fifty years of service as customs inspector.

Mr. Kenfield has the distinction of being the oldest of Uncle Sam's inspectors in point of service.

Mr. Kenfield was appointed during Andrew Johnson's administration. At that time he was assigned to serve under Hannibal Hamlin, then collector of the port of Boston. The inspector has a war record much to be proud of. During the battle at Antietam, the bloodiest struggle of the Civil War, he lost his left leg and one of his fingers.

Mr. Kenfield is seventy-nine years old. His wife died about a year ago. At present he is in the Atlantic avenue division of the service.

HEARS GERMANY WOULD MAKE FAIR PEACE

By International News Service.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 17.—Dutch financial circles are in receipt of information to the effect that peace overtures are to be made by Germany in the near future, either through the Vatican or the United States. The financiers who have received these reports are in close touch with the situation in Berlin and regard the peace rumors as having excellent foundation.

It is their impression that Germany will be willing to accept terms which the allies would regard as highly favorable.

HEAVY LOSS IN PROVIDENCE BLAZE

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 17.—The factory and business district of this city was endangered early today by a three-alarm fire that partially destroyed one section of the Providence Warehouse, a four-story brick building, on Mason street, and badly damaged the Foster-Smith Auto Repair Shop, nearby. The roof of the six-story Calender Building, across the street, was also damaged by a fire started by flying sparks.

The total loss was estimated by fire officials at $250,000.

Two hundred automobiles in the Foster-Smith shop were either ruined or badly damaged by the flames. Two hundred others were saved by employees and citizens.

One thousand bales of cotton in the section of the warehouse where the fire started were covered. The cotton was consigned to the River Spinning Company of Phillisdale. It had been stored in the warehouse only yesterday.

The cause of the fire is unknown. An investigation will be immediately begun.

The section in which the fire started is known as Section 10. This section was totally destroyed. The nine other sections which comprise the building were damaged by smoke and water. These sections were filled with general merchandise. Most of this was damaged by the smoke and water.

MRS. BRYANT TO GIVE UP "WHITE SLAVE" CRUSADE

Mrs. Joseph A. Bryant of Newton, who accomplished notable work in vice crusade in New York, but who feels that her usefulness in that direction has been destroyed by the disclosure of her identity.

Mrs. Joseph A. Bryant, the West Newton society woman who for a year has been assisting in the prosecution of "white slavers" in New York, during which time she has saved many young women from traps laid for them by posing as the owner of questionable resorts, has received several appeals to take up the same line of work in Boston.

The appeals have come in the form of pitiful letters, telephone calls and personal visits from young women seeking aid, Mrs. Bryant said today. However, Mrs. Bryant has decided to retire from the crusade.

News that Mrs. Bryant, who is a Bryn Mawr graduate, and whose husband is a Boston chemist, has given up the work that gave her so much prominence was contained in a New York dispatch, which intimated that Mr. Bryant had forbidden his wife to continue in the crusade, but she denied this today.

"My husband does not object to the work in which I have rendered such good service," she said. "It was because my identity was disclosed that he deeply want me doing that sort of work. Then, too, you know I have four children.

"I would be 'Anne Smith' now probably if my real name had not been learned. I feel just as Mr. Bryant did when my true name came out.

"Since my return to Boston I have had hundreds of appeals to do the same kind of work here, only not in connection with the police. I have received personal calls from women who need me, have had telephone calls, and have received many pitiful letters.

"I have quit the work, though, for it would be useless for me to continue with my identity known to everybody."

Mr. Bryant said today:

"Let the thing rest as it is. I have had publicity enough. I did not approve Mrs. Bryant's action and did not desire her to go to New York to testify."

Mrs. Bryant's decision to drop the work came so suddenly that she did not appear as a witness in a New York case in which she brought about arrests. At the trial of William and Michael Perna Assistant District Attorney Minton asked Detective Enright why the woman who helped him trap the two white slavers was not present. She was known to the police as Miss Anna Smith, but at a white slave trial a month ago it was shown she is Mrs. Bryant.

Detective Enright said "Miss Smith" rented an apartment in order to trap the two men on trial.

Newton Mayor for School Sprinklers

That some Newton schools are not as safe from fire as they should be was the admission today of Mayor Edwin O. Childs in commenting on the recent report of Fire Chief Walter B. Rantlett and Public Buildings Commissioner Walter R. Forbush. The Mayor said:

"It is imperative that we have fire sprinklers in all school basements and we must change all wooden stairways. Personally I am in favor of making all the changes recommended by the report."

CAPTAIN GIVES MELLEN VIEW ON SHIPS

By L. V. B. RUCKER,
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—A tale of the South Seas today broke the bonds-and-stocks-and-figures monotony of the New Haven conspiracy trial.

Charles S. Mellen got a respite while the jury listened to H. C. Goodall, onetime owner of the Metropolitan Steamship Company, the skipper who took the steamships Yale and Harvard around the Horn.

When the New Haven railway, under the guise of the New England Navigation Company, the name under which the railroad did its steamship business, controlled the Metropolitan Steamship Company, all of its property was taken over by the Metropolitan Steamship Company of Maine, except the Yale and Harvard. These steamers were chartered to the Pacific Navigation Company.

Goodall was the owner of the Metropolitan Steamship Company of New Jersey when it was placed in the hands of a receiver in 1909. He said that in 1907 and 1908, before he became owner of the company, he was in a position to acquire its bonds and approached Mellen with a view to selling the line to the New Haven. Mellen turned him down, saying he "wanted nothing to do with the Yale and Harvard."

YES—IT IS POSSIBLE TO STOP RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is a tormenting and stubborn malady. In some cases it yields to treatment which is without avail in other cases.

The darting pains, lame muscles or stiffened joints only disappear by gradually expelling the uric acid, and so many thousands have been relieved by the blood-enriching oil-food in Scott's Emulsion that you should give it a faithful trial. Scott's Emulsion acts as a powerful blood-purifier by increasing the red corpuscles and it strengthens the organs to carry off the acids which cause the trouble.

Try Scott's Emulsion. It cannot harm. It has helped thousands and may be exactly what you need. No Alcohol.

Bilious Attacks Yield to BEECHAM'S PILLS

Bilious attacks are brought on by a weak digestion and a torpid liver, and cause much discomfort and suffering. These attacks upset the system, bring on sick headache, constipation, low spirits, sallow skin, and make you feel out of sorts, weary, lazy and stupid.

Get rid of a bilious attack quickly, and no serious results follow. Neglect it, and you are likely to have graver troubles. Be on the safe side. Take it in hand at once. There is no need to experiment, for bilious attacks readily yield to the gentle, safe but certain action of Beecham's Pills. A famous remedy that corrects stomach disorders, strengthens the digestion, regulates the bile, and keeps the liver and bowels active. These pills purify the blood, bring color to the cheeks and act as a tonic to the entire system. Taken in time they ward off bilious attacks and will prevent serious illness.

To improve your physical condition and fortify yourself against disease, you will find nothing so safe, so prompt, so sure, so good and true as Beecham's Pills.

MACKENSEN IS TO OPPOSE KITCHENER

By International News Service.

ROME, Nov. 17.—Efforts of the allies to win a victory on Gallipoli peninsula will bring two master warriors, Earl Kitchener of England and Field Marshal von Mackensen of Germany into conflict, according to reports received here today. Von Mackensen is said to have arrived at Constantinople on Sunday and left on Tuesday to assume command of the Turco-German forces on Gallipoli, while Kitchener is reported in a news dispatch from Athens to have sailed on a warship from Mudros, Island of Lemnos, for the Dardanelles front.

Germany's decision to send Von Mackensen to Turkey is said to have been reached as soon as the Kaiser learned that Kitchener had gone to the Levant.

Says Rumania Will Soon Go to Aid of Teutons

By International News Service.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 17.—"By December at the latest Rumania will take up arms in behalf of Germany," declared former Premier Carpinan in an interview on the future attitude of this country.

The ex-Premier is an uncompromising pro-German and has been working hard to swing sentiment in favor of the Teutonic powers.

It is reported here that Germany will shortly make a new offer to Rumania in the form of a forty-eight-hour ultimatum. Germany wants to be sure of Rumania before embarking upon the much advertised Egyptian campaign.

Fur Embargo Lifted.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Russia has lifted its embargo on the exportation of furs, which has held up shipments valued at millions of dollars consigned to the United States, according to a dispatch from Commercial Attache Baker at Petrograd.

KITCHENER AND KAISER IN BALKANS

other. With the aid of reinforcements the Bulgarians have recaptured Babuna Pass and fever from the Serbians. French forces which tried to cut their way through to the relief of the Serbs were thrown back.

Sofia reports that the French have lost heavily in the fighting on the Tcherna River.

A Salonica telegram states that the Bulgarians, after making a brave stand, were forced northward along the Tcherna by the French and that the Bulgars are trying to resume the offensive southwest of Strumitza.

The little Serbian force in the mountains south of Veles Koprula is now faced with desperation unless help arrives soon. The Bulgars massed a big force there, with many guns, in an attempt to open up the way to Monastir.

The news today indicates that the earlier advices reporting the Bulgarian forces at Uskub as being in danger were wrong. The Bulgarian force at Uskub is so strong that it will be able to spare troops to reinforce the army on the Katchanik front.

Further north the advance guard of the central Bulgar army which occupied Pristina is said to have been expelled. Pristina is thirty-eight miles northwest of Vranje.

The Kaiser's presence in the Balkans is designed to offset the influence exerted by Earl Kitchener in Athens and Bucharest. It is said the Kaiser's program is to establish a Supreme War Council in Constantinople, where, treating the Sultan as he has treated the aged Emperor Francis Joseph, as a negligible quantity, the "All Highest" will direct the operations.

There is no disguising the fact that with the increasing gravity, from the allies' viewpoint, of the military situation in Serbia, the attitude of Greece toward the armies of the Entente has become a matter of the deepest concern.

GERMANS CLAIM PROGRESS.

Capture of 2,000 more Serbian prisoners was announced in today's official report from the German General Staff. It stated that the pursuit of the Serbians in their mountain defences was proceeding satisfactorily, the enemy being unable to delay appreciably the German advance.

In the eastern theatre of war Russian warships have bombarded eStraggo, a town of Northern Courland, now held by the Germans.

The General Staff's report follows:

"Pursuit of the Serbians through the mountains is progressing satisfactorily. The Serbians were unable to delay our advance appreciably yesterday. The Germans captured 2,000 Bulgarians, two cannon and a machine gun.

"On the east front Russian destroyers shelled Petragge, at the northern point of Courland, and the district southwest of that town."

The Serbian town of Prokuplia, twenty miles southwest of Nish, has been captured by the Bulgarians, it was officially announced today by the Bulgarian War Office. The War Office also announces the capture of 7,000 Serbs.

(Note—These 7,000 prisoners evidently the same as those mentioned in the official German last Saturday).

The following is the text of the official Bulgarian report:

"On Saturday the Serbs retreated to the left bank of the Morava, destroying bridges after them. King Peter was with these retiring forces. Crossing the Morava our troops captured Prokuplia, where we took six mortars, nineteen ammunition carts and 7,000 prisoners.

At Grejesco we took 150 railway carriages.

On the right bank of the Vardar River at Karassa we repulsed French attacks and captured three officers, fifty-three men and two Maxims."

Paris Reports Night Artillery Fighting

By International News Service.

PARIS, Nov. 17.—Three night artillery duels are reported in today's communique from the War Office, which follows:

"Nothing was reported in the course of the night except some artillery engagements in the valley of the Aisne around Fontenoy, in Champagne, and in the Woevre region to the north of Flirey."

Mrs. Glasle Gets $500 For Husband's Love

A jury in the Superior Court today awarded Mrs. Fannie Glasle of Boston, 39 Dorset st, Dorchester, $500 from Mrs. Agnes Kern and $100 from Mrs. Genevieve Glasle, sister and mother respectively, for the alienation of the affections of her husband, William J. Glasle. The jury reported for Adam Glasle, father of the husband. All three were sued for $5,000 each.

How to Prevent Acid Stomachs and Food Fermentation

By a New York Physician.

My experience has forced me to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is excessive acid in the stomach, aggravated by food fermentation. Hyperacidity irritates the delicate lining of the stomach abnormally, causing that full bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach wall is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—acid and wind. In all cases, and they comprise a great majority of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little water or cold water, immediately after eating, from one to two teaspoonfuls of bisurated magnesia, which is the most effective antacid and food corrective I have ever found. The excess acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy, normal manner. Be sure to ask your druggist for bisurated magnesia, rather than magnesia in any other form.

Rosebery Regrets Plan for a Great U. S. Navy

By International News Service.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—"I know of nothing more disheartening than the announcement that the United States is about to embark upon the construction of as armada destined to equal or be second only to that of Great Britain."

Thus declared Lord Rosebery, president of the Rhodes lecture at University College.

"This means," he continued, "that the burden of naval construction will continue to be borne by other nations, whose navies will be increased exactly in proportion to the increase in the navy of the United States.

"It is a disheartening prospect to think that the United States, so happily removed from the European conflict, should voluntarily take that burden which after the war we will find has broken our backs."

Old Europe, said Lord Rosebery, was disappearing never to return in its present shape. In the future it would be quite impossible to make treaty arrangements without first obtaining likely guarantees of their observance.

The signature of Germany to a document of any kind, said he, would have little value within any measurable time.

Lord Rosebery is recognized as voicing the sentiments of the British naval and military authorities. They are bitterly opposed to the construction of an American navy that will place the United States in a commanding position.

They recognize that with such a navy afloat Great Britain would be compelled to recognize and obey the provisions of international law as applied to the freedom of the seas.

GORICAR NAMES BIG MEN IN BOMB PLOT

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The government's quest for legal evidence against the men higher up in the gigantic bomb and arson plots has been given tremendous impetus by Dr. Goricar, Austrian ex-consul, who was for three hours yesterday in conference with representatives of the Department of Justice.

The conference continued most of last night. In exhaustive detail Dr. Goricar repeated his sensational charges against foreign diplomats, wealthy American financiers and their alleged financial allies.

Following the conference Dr. Goricar left town. His destination was not announced. But he was found almost immediately by A. Bruce Bielaski, chief of the bureau of investigation of the Department of Justice.

"I have been working on the exposures for three months," asserted Dr. Goricar, before the conference began. "I have documents and typewritten data which would fill three books. I intend to continue my exposures for two reasons:

"1.—Because I am working for Slavic unity. 2.—Because I think it time the citizens of the United States awakened to the fact that this propaganda threatens not only their internal peace, but the very fabric of their industrial and social life."

Dr. Goricar gave the government officials a typewritten list of names. On this list he adds are the men back of the widespread attempt to destroy munition plants, place bombs on ships, force strikes and initiate passport frauds.

They include practically every prominent diplomatic representative of the Central Powers. In addition Dr. Goricar involves a number of New York bankers and men of wealth well known in the commercial world.

He furnished, too, the names of scores of the 3,000 ships he asserts are operating in this country. His charge is that they operate under the direction of Captain Boy-ed, naval attache, and Captain von Papen, military attache of the German Ambassador and Austrian Consul-General von Nuber.

Dr. Goricar displayed letters written by German and Austrian diplomats to heads of foreign fraternal orders. These letters, it is said, show an attempt to organize a foreign army, within the borders of the United States.

HUNT FOR PLOTS TIES UP U. S. LAW FORCE

JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The legitimate legal business of the United States is practically paralyzed because of the widespread plots to violate the neutrality of the nation, both in connection with the European war and the Mexican situation. This was admitted at the Department of Justice today, where it was said that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is so seriously behind in its work that certain cases in which the government is interested cannot be taken up for an indefinite time.

The investigators are so busy with bomb conspiracies, fraudulent passport cases, Mexican border plots and cases allied with them that they cannot undertake any additional labor. In consequence many white slave complaints and certain bank cases are held up. To relieve the situation the Attorney-General will ask Congress for legislation greatly increasing his bureau.

At the behest of the Navy Department laws may be enacted to make it possible for the United States to prevent espionage at the navy yards.

Brockton Labor Men Fear for McGovern

BROCKTON, Nov. 17.—The non-arrival of John McGovern at San Francisco has caused anxiety among his friends in this city where he is president of the labor union.

Early this month Mr. McGovern left Boston for the Pacific Coast to attend the A. F. of L. Convention. He was seen to the train in Boston by Louis Pelosuth, another labor man of this city. McGovern, it is said, went on the trip much against his will because he was not in the best of health. Repeated inquiry has failed to bring any news of his arrival, and friends fear he became ill on the journey.

GREEK KING NOW LESS HOSTILE TO ALLIES

ATHENS, Nov. 17.—News of anti-dynastic riots at Petras was followed today by reports that King Constantine had expressed a desire to discuss the military situation with Lord Kitchener, British Secretary of State for War, who is now in the near East.

This indicated that the King may be inclined to adopt a less uncompromising attitude toward the allies. Stern measures have been adopted here to put down political rioting. The most drastic martial law is threatened if anti-government demonstrations occur.

TRAWLER FLEET TIED UP BY A STRIKE

About a dozen steam trawlers belonging to the Bay State Fishing Company and the Trident Fisheries Company are tied up in East Boston as the result of a strike among the fishermen aboard them.

The men, who number about 140, are striking for shorter hours when the steam trawlers are in port. They also want the work aboard ship when they are in port to stop at 5 p. m. Pay does not enter into the controversy, according to one of the officials of the union.

QUICKLY STOPS HEAD COLDS AND SNUFFLES

Catarrhal Germs Cause of Most Colds. New Germicidal Air Treatment Best Remedy for These Common Ailments.

Upwards of 90 per cent of the so-called colds in the head and throat are in reality dangerous indications of the presence of acute catarrh. When you hear a person sneeze or cough it's almost certain they are throwing catarrh germs into the air for some other person to breathe, and it's just as certain that the person breathing these germs will soon have catarrh or a catarrhal cold. The time to make these germs harmless and drive out your catarrhal cold is the very instant you feel a desire to sneeze or cough, or start to snuffle and wipe your nose every few minutes.

The quickest and surest way to stop a head cold and drive catarrh germs out of your system is to pour a few drops of the oil of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) into one of the Hyomei inhaling devices which comes with each large package and place the inhaler between your lips and breathe the germicidal but pleasant smelling air into your nose, throat and lungs. This air utterly destroys all catarrh germ life, quickly opens the closed air passages, makes breathing easy, clears your stuffed up head, cleans out your throat and ends your snuffling and nose blowing. There certainly is no quicker or more satisfactory way of breaking up a cold, even after it is well started, and a few weeks' use will do away with all danger of chronic catarrh. Sold by druggists everywhere, including Riker-Jaynes' Drug Stores, who agree to return the full purchase price to any who use it and are not satisfied. In buying Hyomei for the first time be very sure to get the large size which contains the inhaler, as this is very essential for best results.—Advertisement.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" if cross, bilious or feverish.

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full direction for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs"; then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." For sale by Riker-Jaynes and all reliable druggists.—Advertisement.

"CARMEN" IS WELL RECEIVED

Maria Gay Star on Second Night of Opera

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

"CARMEN" was the bill for the second night of the Boston opera season and the opening of the second subscription series. There was a much smaller audience than on Monday night, and it would seem that "Carmen," the most popular opera of the old Boston company repertory for several seasons, had lost its drawing powers.

It was to a great end purposes the old Boston opera "Carmen," for Maria Gay was the Gypsy lady, George Baklanoff the Toreador and Riccardo Martin the Don Jose. Monteaux conducted.

Bizet's "Carmen" is one of the most perfect of grand operas. Its score contains some of the finest music ever composed, its orchestration is profound and scholarly and the drama is the best story ever used for a music drama. An opera libretto which can enthrall thousands when turned into a motion picture as "Carmen," has done recently is surely a remarkable one.

MARIA GAY SINGS BETTER.

The part of Carmen is so great that very few women have ever been successful in it. Calve, of course, made it her own. She had both the voice and the person that Bizet must have dreamed of. Fremstad, Dr. Eames, Marguerita Sylva, all have had a try at it.

Geraldine Farrar, a dramatic soprano, acts the role enormously well but finds much of the music outside her voice. Maria Gay created a sensation in the part when she first came to Boston six years ago. She was Spanish herself, and she played a realistic rather than a romantic cigarette girl. Gay's energy, fire, passion and big contralto voice made her the most successful Carmen since Calve.

It is two years since she has been seen as Carmen in Boston. She has not grown younger nor thinner. It seems to me that she has lost much of the force which used to drive her through. Her voice has not suffered, and she sings with more restraint and better taste than ever before.

BAKLANOFF SHINES.

George Baklanoff as the Toreador is the ideal Escamillo in appearance and manner. He is big and impressive and his great dark voice is wonderfully suited to the heavy music of the Toreador song.

Riccardo Martin, the American tenor, was the Don Jose. Mr. Martin has been a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company for some years. When Caruso left that house in mid-season much of the tenor work fell upon his shoulders. It is an achievement for Rabinoff to have a man of his repute in his company. Nevertheless I do not admire his thin, penetrating tones nor his stage presence, nor his costumes and gestures.

May Schleider, the Michaela, is an attractive young woman with a pretty voice who does not distinguish the role particularly. George Puttis, the Morales, was entirely inadequate.

The big ballet in the fourth act written by Bizet after the opera had been produced and introducing much of his "L'Arlessienne music, introduced Pavlowa and her fine troupe in a series of Spanish dances which, needless to say, were splendidly done.

The conducting of Moranzoni was very creditable. Nevertheless, this warm and glowing score reveals defects in the various voices of the orchestra that were not evident in the Montemezzi performance of the previous night. The chorus, though smaller than the old Boston chorus, sang with a good volume of tone and very skilfully.

Tonight comes "Madama Butterfly" with Tamaki Miura, the Japanese prima donna; Elvira Leveroni, Riccardo Martin and Thomas Chalmers.

ornaments were diamonds, which sparkled on her corsage and at her throat, they being worn on a black velvet band. In her gray hair were jeweled combs.

Miss Marion Ames was in a sand-colored chiffon, which was embroidered in small forget-me-nots and the green silk vine. The bodice had the pink and green color scheme carried out in ribbon. She wore a necklace of beautifully carved pale pink corals, set in graduated pendant effect in old Roman gold.

Miss M. Ames was in a white and blue striped chiffon gown, worn over white satin and the skirt was edged in blue and white marabout. Her waist had trimming of the white marabout and blue satin ribbon. Large rhinestone buttons were on her white satin sash at the waistline.

o o o

Miss Hilda Hobart of New York, who is here for the Thanksgiving holidays, was in pale pink satin brocaded in gold, and the bodice had gold lace over the plain pink satin very effectively combined. Cream lace trimmed the decolete corsage, with small bows of black satin ribbon on either shoulder.

Miss Jessie Lamson was in a white satin, with palettes of silver and trimming of cream lace. Miss Amy Shreve was gowned in white chiffon over white satin. The skirt had three bands of sable trimming it. The bodice had tiny small pale pink silk rosebuds dotted in the narrow band of sable. In her hair were large shell combs, studded with turquoises.

Miss Henrietta Holmes wore a beautiful creation of ciel blue chiffon over white satin. The skirt was edged in white marabout and the bodice had the same trimming, together with large blue bows in either shoulder and touches of the white marabout.

Her aunt, Mrs. Willard Holmes, wore black panne velvet and it was trimmed in a beautiful jetted net tunic that almost entirely covered the front of her gown. It was finished at the bottom with black lynx fur. Her jewels were diamonds in a chain of platinum, while a diamond brooch sparkled in her corsage.

o o o

Mrs. Henry Hunnewell was in black velvet and white lace. The gown, which was of panne velvet, had the bodice almost entirely of lace and the velvet straps on the shoulders were caught with jetted ornaments. She wore a black chiffon scarf over her shoulders. Her full green beaded fringe hung to the hem of the gown, which was outlined in a band of sable. Her corsage was done in cream lace and green satin ribbon. She wore a gold chain and beautiful emerald pendant.

Miss Harriett Stearns of Philadelphia, who is here visiting friends, had a large box party. She was in white satin brocaded in the cloth of silver wheat design. Her corsage had a short bolero jacket of white chiffon embroidered in pale pink roses.

Mrs. Henry Phillips was in dull gray satin, embroidered in silver tracery in the vine effect, it radiating from the waistline to the hem of her trained skirt. Her bodice had undersleeves of rich old point lace, the elbows finished in a band of beaver fur. The lace was also in the Medici collar effect, high at the back and open at the front.

o o o

Miss Eva Carroll was charming in a white satin, with panels of silver and trimming of cream lace. Miss Amy Shreve was gowned in white chiffon over white satin. The skirt had three bands of sable trimming it. The bodice had tiny small pale pink silk rosebuds dotted in the narrow band of sable. In her hair were NOTABLE among the handsome women at the opera last night was Mrs. George R. Fearing, who was Hester S. Cochrane, of No. 168 Beacon street, a prominent member of the exclusive Back Bay set.

Mrs. Fearing was in yellow satin and ermine and was noticeably one of the most attractive box hostesses.

Mrs. Fearing entertains extensively during the Winter season. She is, besides, much interested in suffrage and likewise in different charitable causes.

o o o

Mrs. John L. Gardner had a party of friends in her lower proscenium box. She looked very chic in a gown of heavy black duchesse satin. The decolete bodice had a wide girdle of pale lavender panne velvet, with a large bow in the back in butterfly effect. She wore black satin shoes in her light hair. Diamonds, with black velvet, sparkled in her corsage and in her necklace.

o o o

Mrs. Henry Harrison was in King's blue satin, the skirt en traine. It was banded to the waist line in alternate trimming of sable and blue irridescent embroidery, the latter beading the hands of sable. The corsage was trimmed in the same blue irridescent embroidery and finished with the deep two-toned fringe. Point venise lace finished the elbow sleeves. In her hair were gold combs studded with turquoise.

Miss Estelle Harrison, with her aunt, was very pretty in white lace, the skirt of which was done in rows of pale blue satin ribbon. The bodice was of blue satin, veiled in white chiffon embroidered in turquoise sequins and rhinestones. White and blue feathers were worn in her light hair.

Mrs. I. Tucker Burr and her husband occupied a lower box. She was in black satin. She had a black velvet band around her throat, which was fastened with diamond ornaments. Over her shoulders she wore a beautiful white embroidered shawl of Japanese crepe, with a deep white fringe that fell well over her shoulders to her waist.

In her gray hair she wore a number of jeweled combs.

DR. WASHINGTON BURIED AT TUSKEGEE

By International News Service.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Nov. 17.—Simplicity marked the funeral of Booker T. Washington, noted negro educator, race leader and author, which took place today at the Tuskegee Institute. Fully 3,000 persons came here to pay their tribute of respect to Dr. Washington. Only 2,500 of them could get into the chapel.

The simple Episcopal service which was read was accompanied by old plantation songs which Dr. Washington loved and the reading of a few of the thousands of telegrams of condolence that came from all parts of the country.

Prominent men in all walks of life, white and colored, attended the service. The line that formed in front of the administration building to march to the chapel was headed by the institute trustees. Following them were members of the Tuskegee faculty, the executive council of the school and a number of distinguished visitors, educators and students.

FEAR TECH MAN WAS LOST ON ANCONA

Albert W. Buck, a Tech graduate, formerly an inspector of the State Board of Labor and Industry, who was recently engaged in the typhus campaign in Serbia, is believed to have perished on the Italian ship Ancona, which was torpedoed at sea.

Commissioner Edward Mulready of the State Board of Labor said today:

"I have no hope for Mr. Buck. I have been advised by the American consul at Naples that Buck, in all probability, sailed on the Ancona. I have been to the representatives of the line in Boston and the only information there is that they expect the passenger list soon.

"I cannot believe he sailed on any other ship, because I have been unable to find the name of any other ship that left Naples during the last two weeks."

Buck was twenty-eight years old and lived on West Newton street when in Boston. He was granted a six months' leave of absence to go to Serbia with typhus squad of Harvard and Tech students, sent by the Rockefeller Foundation.

Several weeks ago Mr. Mulready received a letter from Buck requesting that his leave of absence be extended. Mr. Mulready was about to answer the letter when he received a cablegram from the American Consul at Naples saying "Disregard letter sent by Buck. He was very anxious that his position should not be taken away from him."

"This cablegram indicates to me that Buck was returning on the Ancona," Mr. Mulready said.

Buck has a sister living on Cushing avenue, Dorchester.

The Wonderful Adventures of PHRA THE PHOENICIAN

A Vivid Tale of a Hero of Many Lives, Many Loves and Many Battles, by Edwin Lester Arnold

CHAPTER I.
My First Love.

WELL and truly an inspired mind has written: "One man in his time plays many parts," but surely no other man has ever played so many parts in the course of a single existence as I have.

I was at the very beginning a citizen of that ancient city, Tyre, in what is now Syria. The first thirty years of my life were full of the frailties and shortcomings of an ordinary mortal.

The sight of a thousand sails at my father's door excited my daily wonder. My imagination was fired by the sea captains' tales of travel and romance.

More than a thousand years ago I set out on my first voyage. The spirit of a man was born with me as I stood by the steering oar. Who could have been prouder than I? The ship was stuffed with a hundred bales of purple cloth from my father's vats and was bound whither I listed.

We sailed to Heliopolis on the Nile, to Ostia, among the Aegean islands and up and down the coast. One day we put in a little inlet for water and found a pirate galley anchored there. We outnumbered them in men, however, so were not alarmed.

Among the newly-taken slaves of the pirate crew was such a captive as I had rarely or never seen. She struck me at once as being the fiercest and most beautiful creature that mortal eyes had ever lighted upon. Never was Umbrian or Iberian girl like that; never was Cyprian Aphrodite served by a maid so pink and white. Her hair was fiery red gold, gleaming in the sunshine like the locks of a young goddess Medusa. Her face was of ruddy ivory and her native comeliness gleamed through the unwashed dust and tears of many long days and nights. Her eyes were as blue under her shaggy wild hair as the sky overhead and her body—firmly under its sorrow stains—was still as fair as that of some dainty princess.

I bought her from the pirate captain for what would be the equivalent of fifty of your modern pounds. Then I cut the red maid loose and took would serve but to lighten a voyage or two should muck my forethought and lead my fate into the strangest paths ever trodden by mortal man.

In truth, that sunny virago bewitched me. She combined such ferocity with her grace and was so pathetic in her reckless grief at things that I never dreamed was kind to her. At this she softened to me and, before many days, she had bathed and, discarding her rags for a length of cloth of purple, dressed up her hair with a strand of ribbon she found and, looking into a vessel of water for a mirror, she smiled for the first time.

She soon picked up some of my southern tongues, and I very fairly acquired the British language from this comely tutoress. I learned that she was of the British country, where her father was king, and had been captured in a pirate foray. What I heard of Britain touched my curiosity and I determined to go there.

That country was then attracting much attention among our merchants and captains. All the weapons and things of Britain were in great demand. No tin and gold, no cattle hides, were to be had like British. No furs in Winter, the Roman ladies vowed, were so warm as these. So pellets, from Parentium to the Tiber, held his house well furnished unless a red-haired slave-girl or two from that region arrived. And sad and listless in his painted porticos.

So we headed the vessel toward Britain. We sailed down the green coast of Hispania, through the narrow waters of Herculis Pretum and northward until we could see the steep rocks of Armorica on the right and the misty British shore just ahead.

I called out to Blodwen, the slave girl, and she was beside herself with eagerness.

CHAPTER II.
Blodwen, the Princess.

WITH Blodwen directing the helmsman, we sailed through an opening in the cliffs of Britain and into a little estuary that opened before us. Around a bend we came upon a British village. There were about 200 huts scattered around the slopes of a grassy bowl, in the top of which was built a stockade of logs and mud walls, encompassing a few better-built houses.

As our sails came around the headland the entire population streamed yelling up the hill to the stockade. This amused Blodwen greatly. Then she exerted her powerful voice in a wailing signal-cry. The effect was instantaneous. The crowd stopped and then came scrambling back down the hill. After a little parley, being assured of their good will and friendly urged by Blodwen, we landed and were soon overwhelmed in a throng of wondering, jostling, excited British.

They carried Blodwen in a tumultuous procession into the fortress. If I was ill at ease for my fair barbarian had turned the tables on me. How would the slave-princess treat her captive-master? I was not long in doubt. I was summoned to the stockade and into a long, low dwelling her own to my ship. Soon we set sail again for the open main.

It was the will of destiny that this fair slave, whom I deemed during that was both palace and citadel of the place. I found myself in a spacious hall, effective in its gloomy dignity. The massive walls were draped with animal skins. There were rude tables, enough to seat about 100 men. At the farther end of the hall was a dais of logs, covered with skins and crowned with a massive and ample chair, wonderfully fashioned and carved.

Near it were a group of women and one or two white-robed Druid priests. But chief among them was she who stepped forth to meet me with the first idea had been to change her dress—in the linen and fair furs. Chains of hammered gold were about her neck, a shining gorget belt set with a great boss of native pearls upon her middle and her bare arms gleamed like ivory under their load of bracelets of yellow metal and prismatic pearl-shell.

Blodwen Told Them I Had Rescued Her.

She took my hand with affectionate condescension and told her kindred I had rescued her and restored her to her kindred. Thus did she gracefully pervert the truth. When they all acclaimed me as their ally only one—a tall Druid—scowled at me evilly.

It seems that Blodwen's kinsmen had been slain in the sea-rover's raid that led to her capture. The succession to the oak throne was observed strictly among the Britons. She was, therefore, elected to the headship of the clan, after her father's death, with an almost unbroken accord.

But Dhuwallon, her cousin, the Druid priest, and next below her in birth, scowled to see her seated on the throne and hated me, as I saw, as the unconscious thwarter of his ambition.

Many months we spent happily in Blodwen's town. She bore me a son for whom the black priest, at the accursed inspiration of his own jealous heart and thwarted hopes, read out an evil destiny, to her great sorrow.

One morning I found that my ship had sailed away with all my men. I have often thought that Blodwen had a hand in this desertion. She was so ready with her condolence, so quick to propose that I should "hide the Winter and leave her in the Spring" that I could not think the catastrophe took my gentle savage much by surprise.

I yielded and the long, black Winter was worn through among the British. When the yellow light came back again I married Blodwen before all her tribe and was rich by her potentate favor.

She was a good princess, but variable. Blodwen, the chieftainess, urging her clansmen to a tribal fight, red-hot with the strong drink of war, or reeking with the fumes and cruelty of a bloody sacrifice to Baal, was one thing, and on the other hand, Blodwen tending with the rude skill of the day her kinsmen's wounds, Blodwen, the daughter, weeping gracious, silent tears in the hall of her fathers as the minstrels chanted their praises, or humming a ditty to the listening blue-eyed little one upon her knee, was all another sight and I loved her better than I have ever loved any of those other women who have loved me since.

CHAPTER III.
Treachery.

BUT sterner things were coming my erratic way. The proud Roman Eagle, having swept over Gaul, must needs cross over to our white shore, carrying death among our kinsmen. Who could stand against the Romans? Our men came back presently with tales of the foeman's deadly might by sea and shore. Early one Autumn a friendly Veneti came over from Gaul and warned the southern peoples that the stern Roman Consul Caesar was collecting boats and men to invade us.

Blodwen hung in my arms a few moments, then sent me eastward with a few men, all she could spare from watching her own dangerous neighbors, to oppose the Roman landing. The Druid priest Dhuwallon, though exempt by his order from military service, followed sullen behind my war-like clansmen.

We joined other bodies of British and encamped along the Kentish downs, in good force but disunited. Three days later came a runner who said Caesar was landing to the westward—how I wished that traitor Dhuwallon would stick in his throat and choke him and thither, bitterly against my advice, went nearly all our men.

The next morning we saw Caesar's sails approaching. In vain our recalling signal-fires smoked. A thousand scythed chariots and four thousand men were away. The Romans landed. Those of us who had remained on the downs rushed forward to meet them and were speedily rolled back, broken and fleeing, by the Roman legionaries. Britain was lost.

Soon all the coppices were thronged with our flying footmen. Dhuwallon and I were mounted. The Romans had not brought a single horse. Some of these some eager young patricians vaulted and came galloping after Dhuwallon and me. Knowing the roads and marshes we should have gotten away, but treachery was in the black heart of that high priest.

As we were fleeing the scoundrel priest drew his javelin into my back, which fell dead. I was quickly captured by a young patrician, who was soon to cross me, for when my life was spared by another named Sempronius. I was bound by the wrists and taken back to the Roman camp.

I was ushered into a tent where I was sternly questioned by a Roman general, who asked much of my people, their habits, customs, numbers and so on. Many of my answers he took down in notes on wax tablets with a stylus, writing at a speed few comprehended in those days.

When I was dismissed by him and went out to Sempronius I was amazed to learn that I had been adjudged by no less than the great Caesar himself.

I was left bound for the night by a rock. I managed to chafe my bonds against the rough edges of the rock until I was free. Then I stole silently away from my sleeping guards and made my way back to my kinsmen.

But the British churls, sullen at their defeat of the day before, were looking for a victim to bear the burden of their wrongs. And the proud priest, Dhuwallon, saw with ready wit how he might propitiate the Britons and gratify his own ends at my expense. He procured false witnesses and by midday I was bound once more and charged with being a traitor and a Roman spy.

I told my judges of Dhuwallon's treachery to me, but I was regarded as simply adding slander to my other crime. I declared I was no Roman, but a Briton. But they held a mirror before me and I must own that my black hair and dusky face were far more Roman than native. They found me guilty and sentenced me to be offered up to Baal the next morning as a detected spy. The dawn came and they carried me out for their detestable orgy.

My memory is a little hazy. Perhaps, at the time, I was thinking of other things—a red-haired girl, for instance, playing with her little ones outside her porch in a distant glen; my sheikels of brass and tin and silver; my kine, my dogs, and my horses mayhap; such things will be—and thus I knew of how it came. But presently I was on the fatal spot.

I Was to Die Upon a Sacrificial Rock.

A wide circle of green grass, kept short and close, in the heart of a dense thicket of oak. Round this circle a ring of great stone columns, crowned by mighty slabs of the same kind, and hung, today, with all the skins and robes and weapons of the assembled tribesmen; so that the mighty hall we was a rude amphitheatre, walled by the oak trees and the spectators, and in the centre an oblong rock, some eight feet long, with a gutter down it for the blood to run into a pit at its feet. This was the fatal slip from which the Druids launched that poor vessel, the soul, upon the endless ocean of eternity.

All round the great circle, when its presence and significance suddenly burst upon me, were the British, to the number of many hundreds, squatting on the ground in the front rows, or standing behind against the gray pillars, an uncouth ring of motley barbarians, shaggy with wolf and bear skins, gleaming in brass and golden links that glistened in the morning light against naked limbs and shoulders, traced and pictured in blue wood with a hundred designs of war and woodcraft.

They forced me and two other miserable wretches up the rock and then, while our guards stood by us and the mounted men clustered among the monoliths behind, a deadly silence fell upon the assembly. It was so still we could hear the beat of our own hearts, and so intolerable that one of us three fell forward in a swoon ere it had lasted many minutes. The din of battle was like the murmur of a pleasant brook before that expectant hush; and when the white procession of executioners came chanting up the further avenue of stones into the arena, I breathed again as though it was a nuptial procession and they were bringing me a bride less grim than the golden adze which shone at their head.

They sung around the circle their mystic song, and then halted before the rude stone altar. Mixing religion and justice, as was their wont, the chief Druid recited the crimes of the two culprits beside me, with their punishment, and immediately the first one, thinly bound, was pitched upon the stone altar; and while the Druids chanted their hymns to Baal the assembled multitude joined in, and clanging their shields in an infernal tumult which effectually drowned the yells for mercy, the sacred axe fell, and first his head and then his body rolled into the hollow, while twenty little streams of crimson blood trickled down the sides of the altar stone.

The next one was treated in the same way. And found this circle a hollow below, and I was hoisted up to that reeking slab.

While I attempted me that black priest stole up and hissed in my ear. "Is it not better even you think, when you shut your eyes? Take this then, for your final comfort," he said with a malicious leer. "I, even I, the despised and thwarted, will see to Blodwen and answer for her happiness. Ah, you writhe. I thought that would interest you. Let your last thought, accursed stranger, be I and she. Let your last conception be my fair revenge, Villain! I spit upon and deride you." And he was as good as his word, glowering down upon me helpless, with insatiate race and hatred, and then, stepping back, signals to the executioner.

I heard the wild hymn to their savage gods go ringing up again through the groves of the oaks; I heard the clatter of weapons on the round, brass-bound targets, the voices of the priests and the cry of a startled kite circling in the pleasant Autumn mist overhead. I saw the great crescent of the sacred golden adze swing into the sky, and then, while it was just descending to fall which would extinguish me, there came a hush upon the people, followed by a wild shout of fear and anger, and I turned my head half over as I lay bound upon the stone.

I saw the British multitude seethe in confusion and then burst and fly like the foam strands before the wind, as out of the green thickets, at the run, came a fleet band of men, all emotionless over their long brass helmets, their sheet bronze and all Roman legionaries.

I saw Sempronius on his white charger at their head, slittering his brass and scarlet, and finding my tongue in my extremity, "Sempronius!" I yelled, "Sempronius to the rescue!" But too late.

With a wavering, aimless fall the adze descended between my neck and shoulder, the black curtain of dissolution fell over the painted picture of the world, there was a noise of a thousand rivers tumbling into a bottomless cavern—and I expired.

Extraordinary as it may seem, Phra, the Phoenician, continues his narrative with even more wonderful adventures and romance, occupying a later period of his marvelous existence.

OUCH! LUMBAGO! RUB PAINS FROM SORE, LAME BACK

Rub backache away with small trial bottle of old "St. Jacob's Oil."

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica or maybe from a strain, and you'll get relief the moment you rub your back with soothing penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on your back and out comes the pain. It is harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Limber up. Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" from any drug store, and after using it just once, you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 40 years. For sale by Riker-Jaynes and all reliable druggists—Advertisement.

Thin People Can Increase Weight

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy "stay fast" fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good time to weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and tape measure tell their own story, and many thin men and women we believe can easily add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but enriches your food, so that the fat, the fats, sugars and starches of what you have to eat turn into rich, red blood—nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepare it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. Much of this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol works to stop the waste and do it quickly and to make the fat producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive. All leading druggists in this vicinity sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back as found in each large box.

MEAT CAUSE OF LAME BACK AND KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Salts to flush Kidneys if your back is aching.

Noted authority says Uric Acid from meat irritates the Bladder.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. Your urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—Advertisement.

WILSON POLICY HIT BY HOME MARKET CLUB

The policies of President Wilson were sharply arraigned at the annual meeting today of the Home Market Club at No. 77 Summer street by President William B. H. Dowse and Secretary Thomas O. Marvin.

"At no previous period in our history, have the policies of a national administration broken down so completely," said Secretary Marvin. "There have been too many acrobatic reversals on the part of the President.

"The spectre of 1914 will rise for a generation to refute the tariff theories of the dominant wing of the Democracy. The country is in no mood to endure any longer policies that force business into bankruptcy and drive our ships from the trade routes."

President Dowse joined in the attack on the Wilson policies, citing Thomas Jefferson as a "truer American and sounder Democrat."

Secretary Marvin said in his report:

"At no previous period in our history have the policies of a national administration broken down so completely when put into operation as during the past two years of the present administration. No government of this or any other country has turned about face on so many issues of national importance.

"On December 8, 1914, President Wilson in his message to Congress declared that he would stand pat on the question of preparedness. And yet today he poses as the champion of preparedness, and because he realizes that his own party may fail to endorse his recommendations for a large army and navy, he turns for support to members of the party which a year ago he characterized as 'nervous and excited.'

"This is one of the more acrobatic reversals on the part of the President. There are too many others to mention in detail. Free sugar, we are told, is to be abandoned, and free wool may follow it into the discard. The reversals on Panama tolls, on woman suffrage, on the one-term plank and on 'pitiless publicity' are a few of the cases that might be cited. The Mexican policy is a mass of contradictions, and an astounding exhibition of vacillation.

"Even though animated by the best of intentions, it would not be possible to declare that the policies of the administration that have been incorporated in law have proved successful in any degree, except the Federal Reserve Act, and that, too, would have been a failure had it not been for numerous and important amendments secured by the strenuous efforts of the opposition.

"The spectre of 1914 will rise for a generation, like Banquo's ghost, to refute the tariff theories of the dominant wing of the Democracy. The trend was steadily from bad to worse until a power more menacing than the Stadium of a Democratic Congress intervened and the operations of the Underwood-Simmons law were suspended by the imperative needs of impartial nations for the demand for munitions and foodstuffs changed a nation-wide depression into sudden and unexpected prosperity.

BALLAD 'MOTHER' SCORES HIT AT ST. JAMES THEATRE

Watkins and Williams are creating quite a furore at the St. James Theatre with their clever sketch.

This clever duo are unusually popular with the vaudeville patrons and are being warmly received by each successive audience. They have a new collection of songs, each of them a gem. But their best number is the charming sentimental ballad, "Mother," which is rendered by Miss Watkins in her dainty and inimitable way.

She tried out the song at the opening performance. It has met with such emphatic success she is going to continue it as her feature number.

COPPER STOCKS UP IN BOTH MARKETS

Stocks were irregular in the last hour. Realizing began with the afternoon and was general. It caused the first important reaction of the day. Gains in New York at 2:15 included American Can ¾, Beet Sugar ¾, American Sugar ¼, Lackawanna Steel 5, U. S. Steel ¼, Car and Foundry ¾, Baldwin 2⅜, Bethlehem Steel 24¾, Crucible 1¾, General Electric ½, General Motors 2 at 107, it having sold today at the high record price of 400, Maxwell ¾, Westinghouse ⅝, Willys-Overland 1¾, on one sale, Tennessee Copper ¾, Utah ⅝, Erie ⅛, Northern Pacific ⅛ and Canadian Pacific ¼. Coppers, oils and rails had weakened, and other classes ruled lower.

Among declines were American Smelting 1, Anaconda ¾, Inspiration ¼, Texas Oil 2, Mexican Petroleum ½, Studebaker 1¼, American Locomotive ½, Rock Island 1¼, Union Pacific ⅛, St. Paul ⅛, Southern Pacific ⅛, Reading ¼, Pennsylvania ⅛, N. Y. Central ½, Missouri Pacific ⅛, Lehigh Valley ½, Chesapeake & Ohio ⅛ and Atchison ⅛.

Among gains in Boston were Calumet & Arizona ¼, Copper Range ⅛, Greene-Cananea 2⅛, Isle Royale ⅛, North Butte ⅛, St. Mary ½, Lake ⅛, United Fruit ½ and Boston & Maine ⅛. Recessions included Alaska Gold ⅛, Butte & Superior ⅛, American Zinc ⅛, New Arcadian ⅛, Mohawk ⅛, Superior 1, Trinity ¼, Granby ⅛, New Haven ⅝, Atlantic Gulf common ⅛ and preferred ¼.

Near the close Bethlehem sold at 475, 19 points below its highest for the day, and the New York list was ragging lower.

COPPERS AND OILS ADVANCED.

Prices ruled higher in New York at the opening with coppers and oils conspicuous for gains. Merger rumors helped the former. Rails were irregular. Sugars were strong, especially Beet. During the morning a number of war orders began to climb and industrials of this class became active. Bethlehem sold as high as 494, up 24⅜. The big market was busier than for some time, morning transactions totalling more than 600,000 shares. At first there was hesitancy and traders were in doubt as to what price trend would develop. But underlying strength was evident. Neither profit taking nor bear pressure caused a reaction and the list soon ranged higher. Rails withstood foreign liquidation in a manner encouraging to bulls. There was heavy realizing in coppers. Maxwell and Studebaker were strong. Professional traders seemed to be less bearish in sentiment. It is said the public is taking a keen interest in the market, but has not resumed buying on a large scale. More outside demand for stocks is expected soon. U. S. Steel lagged for a while, but soon had sold at 88. It has been freely offered on every advance. One comment is that "there may be a shifting of investments on a considerable scale from U. S. Steel stock into new concerns which may result from present merger plans." Sterling exchange opened strong and with offerings at a minimum.

UNITED FRUIT VERY STRONG.

United Fruit was a feature of the Boston market, advancing nine points in the first hour. Shattuck-Arizona opened at a high record price. Coppers were strong and active during the morning and the local market had a broad tone. Trading was extensive. Copper metal has sold for 19 cents a pound. The trade looks for further advance. It is quoted in London at the equivalent of 19¾. Spot spelter has sold at 13 cents there. Spot tin has advanced in the futures list, and electrolytic 41 lots in that market today. Lead was off to 4.

In the first six weeks of the present fiscal year United Fruit earnings are said to total $600,000, and earnings for the first two in November are said to have been at the rate of $150,000 weekly.

READY TO CARE FOR AUTOS AT BIG GAME

One of the greatest problems confronting the authorities in charge of the arrangements for the big game at the Stadium Saturday is that of the automobiles. It is estimated that between 3,000 and 5,000 machines will bring their loads to the Stadium, some to unload their occupants and leave the vicinity, but the greater part to wait until the game is over.

The authorities, however, have made preparations which they believe will be adequate to meet the situation.

There will be four avenues of approach to the Stadium for motors. Everett and Market streets to Soldiers Field road, North Harvard street to Stadium street, Western avenue and the Metropolitan Park road to North Harvard street at the Boston end of the Anderson Bridge and the Cambridge Parkway along the river to the Cambridge end of the Anderson Bridge.

The five principal parking places will be: Soldiers Field, between the gates on Soldiers Field road and the baseball field and between the baseball stands and the stadium, capacity about 2,000 cars; East side of Soldiers Field road near the field entrance, 2,000 to 2,500 cars; north side of Soldiers Field road, near Newell boathouse, 500 cars; Metropolitan Park road between Western avenue and North Harvard street, Boston side 500 cars, and the Cambridge parkway, both sides of Boylston street, 400 cars.

After the game all cars parked on Soldiers Field road and in the field will have to leave by way of the parkway and Everett or Market streets; cars in Soldiers Field near Stadium street will leave by way of Stadium and North Harvard streets; those along the parkway by way of Western avenue.

The cars on the Cambridge side will leave along the parkway toward Boston or westerly by way of Mt. Auburn and Brattle streets.

To Reopen Hyde Park Case.

The city will reopen the Hyde Park water case. Mayor Curley said that Roscoe Walsworth, a Boston lawyer and resident of Hyde Park, had agreed to undertake the case for a nominal fee.

COUNCIL VOTES NOT TO CONFIRM E. E. SMITH

The Governor's Council, by a vote of 5 to 2, with two members not voting, today refused to confirm the appointment of Earnest E. Smith, former member of the Boston City Council, as chairman of the Minimum Wage Commission.

Lieutenant Governor Cushing and Councilor Buckley voted in favor, and Councilors Wason, Brackett, Pratt, Prothingham, Mulligan, Denny and Wright opposed. Councilor Ham declined to vote and Councilor Parker was absent.

The Council laid on the table the nomination of Russell A. Wood to succeed himself as a member of the Commission on Industry and Economy.

Action on the appointment of Judge Edward B. O'Brien of Marblehead to the Industrial Accident Board was postponed until next Wednesday, to allow a hearing to a committee from the Massachusetts branch of the American Federation of Labor which wishes David T. Dickinson of Cambridge retained.

A postponement of two weeks on the appointment of T. James Gallagher as clerk of the Watertown court was made to permit a hearing to remonstrants.

Mr. Smith said:

"I regret the refusal of the Governor's Council to confirm my appointment to the Minimum Wage Board because the work appealed to me as full of possibilities for the State.

"The manufacturers have assumed the appointing power. The man they will have Mr. McCall appeal ought to give the law a fair trial. This law will be more important after the war. A flood of immigration is sure to follow and will bring with it the possibility of a bigger Lawrence affair. This law might prevent such a strike. Is not peace at home to be desired, even though some neighbor State gives hard competition by refusing the minimum wage? Before long our neighbor will have dissatisfied labor and industrial war.

"In politics the victor takes the spoils, but I hope the manufacturers, secure in their war profits, will not be short-sighted."

Malden Last Factory Damaged by Fire

Fire today caused damage estimated by the police at $3,000 at the Cox Last Factory on Western Avenue, Malden. A storehouse of the company, known as Section 1, was destroyed, together with 15,000 last blocks. This is the second fire at the plan within two months. Section 1 having been destroyed October 1. The cause of today's fire is unknown.

Painter Mosler's Skull Fractured

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Henry Mosler, the famous American painter, is in a critical condition as the result of a fracture at the base of the skull sustained when he fell from a moving street car early today. Mr. Mosler was unconscious when picked up and was rushed to the Knickerbocker Hospital. Later he was removed to the German Hospital.

WAS IN BED FOR THIRTEEN WEEKS

Mrs. Josephine Rosseau of No. 33 Grand Ave., Boston, Was in a Terrible State.

In a recent interview, the Plant Juice Man, who has his headquarters at the Liggett Drug Company's store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, stated: Neglect of the stomach and digestive organs leads to untold misery, and is responsible for a very large percentage of the ills of mankind. Much unnecessary suffering would be avoided if persons would seek relief at the first sign of trouble instead of waiting until the disease obtains a firm hold upon the system. Plant Juice, this new herbal system tonic, is particularly effective in relieving all diseases of the stomach which are so prevalent. Every day more and more people are coming to realize the truth of this assertion as is proved by the signed testimonials received, of how they have been relieved of illnesses of long standing by Plant Juice, when all other remedies have failed.

Recently Mrs. Josephine Rosseau, who resides at No. 33 Grand Avenue, and is well known socially in this city, consented to allow her name to appear in print on the subject, in view of the great benefit she has derived from Plant Juice. She stated:

"I have suffered with stomach trouble for the past five years, which took the form of indigestion and dyspepsia. My food would sour in my stomach and cause belching and gas with great pain. I had severe headaches and dizzy spells and felt as if I was always going to fall, so had to take hold of a chair or something when trying to get about. I became so weak that I had to go to my bed and stayed there for 13 weeks and thought I was going to die. I had pains all over my body, hot flashes would come over me and I was awfully nervous and restless and could never get an hour's sleep. I read about Plant Juice in the papers and saw, after taking it for five weeks, it has cured me. I can eat any kind of food and it agrees with me. I sleep fine. Plant Juice is certainly 'the only medicine.'"—Advertisement.

ITCHING BURNING PIMPLES ON CHILD

Nearly Covering Cheek. Child Scratching and Crying. Disfigured Terribly.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My child had a severe cold, and all around her nose and lips became very red and sore. In a day or two afterwards small pimples appeared. The pimples spread on the left cheek nearly covering it. A watery substance would form and coming so that the child was scratching and crying the greater part of the night and her sleep was broken to a great extent. The pimples disfigured the child terribly.

"I read of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. In two days they helped her. I sent for more and in just eleven days the child's face was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Wm. W. Dowe, Stratham, N. H., Jan. 8, 1915.

FOOD SOURING IN STOMACH CAUSES GAS, INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapepsin" neutralizes acids in stomach and starts digestion.

Five minutes! No sourness, gas, heartburn, acidity or dyspepsia.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, flatulence, sea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can surely get relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why it relieves sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each one will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat, besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite, but what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now this minute, and rid yourself of stomach misery and indigestion in five minutes. For sale by Ritter-James and all reliable druggists.—Advertisement.

BACK GUERNSEY TO OUTSHINE MAHAN

ODDS OF 5 TO 3 SUIT BACKERS OF OLD ELI

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 17.—Yale bettors have taken all the 2 to 1 offered on Saturday's game with Harvard and are now competing on all 5 to 3 money.

A favorite Yale bet is even money Guernsey kicks as many field goals as Mahan.

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 18—Curfew has sounded on Yale's football practice season. The squad was called out to make its bow and to say its fond farewell to the Bowl. No tears were shed, but there was some live memories of awful batterings and some bruises which have not yet altogether faded away from the anatomies of the Eli players.

Heart burnings at the close of a practice season are never in order and the Yale players feel none today. They wound up their practice with their famous Omega Lamba Chi snakedance around a burning pile into which was thrown all the pieces of uniform, blankets, nose guards and other odd bits of paraphernalia which will be needed no more, now that the practice season has passed into history.

This ceremony took place following the signal drill, which alone was ordered for the afternoon's practice. The coaches kept their word not to order any long scrimmages during the week between the Harvard and Princeton games, the fifteen minutes defensive work of the varsity Monday proving all that will be inflicted upon the eleven during the week.

HIGGINBOTHAM AT END.

It is as good as settled that Jim Higginbotham will be stationed at right end for Yale in the Harvard battle on Saturday, replacing Carl Wiedeman, whose weak knee prohibits football again this Fall. Aside from right end no position in the Yale eleven is regarded as unsettled.

Growing confidence by the Yale "rooters" in their eleven has sent up the betting odds to 5 to 3. They had been 3 to 1 till today. The fighting spirit is up and no eleven ever went to Cambridge with its bulldog teeth set more firmly than that of Captain Wilson's men.

Joy is felt at the return to form of Mal Scovil, who yesterday showed his old power on the sidelines in the varsity. Scovil is not likely to begin the game at Cambridge, but will be summed from the sidelines to hammer Harvard defence for a Yale touchdown in case the Crimson 50-yard mark is reached.

SHIP LUGGAGE TONIGHT.

Tonight all the Yale baggage will be shipped to the Harvard Stadium, where it will await the arrival of the Eli team Friday.

The Yale players will reach their training quarters at the Woodland Park Hotel, Auburndale, tomorrow afternoon in time for dinner, and will run over to the Harvard Stadium Friday afternoon for an hour's work in punting and running through signals.

The improvement of Otis Guernsey in drop kicking has been continued in practice under the tutelage of Dr. "Billy" Bull, who is making Guernsey one of the most finished of the long series of Yale drop kickers which Bull has turned out.

A favorite Yale bet is that Guernsey will kick as many field goals Saturday as does Mahan, the Harvard favorite.

Yale expects a punting game and does not believe that the Harvard attack is powerful enough to pierce its rush line.

NOT AFRAID OF MAHAN.

The Blue is prepared to meet Mahan's kicks and return them with interest. The Yale eleven is believed to be much superior to Harvard on the defense, and, in case the game resolves itself into a punting and drop kicking match, Yale expects fully to hold its own.

Yale has dropped the forward passing play out of its repertoire, Coach Tom Shevlin believing that a few simple plays, well executed, are much better than three times as many less perfectly run off. Anyhow, Shevlin has had no time to coach the eleven a large number of scoring plays.

B. C. High Hopes to Have Defi Accepted

Despite the fact that no reply has been received from either Waltham High or Everett High in regard to a post-season game, Coach Tom McCabe had the Boston College High squad hard at work on the Walpole street grounds. The latter two will be the fourth leader the Maroon and Gold without any other game this season, but the Rev. Edward S. Broderick, S. J., faculty director of athletics, hopes to fill the open date.

B. C. High's challenge to Waltham and Everett has aroused great enthusiasm among its followers and all are eagerly awaiting a reply.

FINAL WORK FOR CRIMSON

BETTING PRICE NOW 5 TO 3

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

Time is growing short, and most of the covered pasteboards admitting to the Stadium Saturday, where the Harvard-Yale football game is staged, are in the hands of the happy owners, or more definitely speaking, the lucky few. Vast as is this amphitheatre of sport, there is nowhere near the number of seats that could be filled, so many thousands must content themselves with listening to the returns from the "firing line" before the bulletin boards.

Everything is working out nicely in both camps. The players have been carefully brought to a point where the physical guardians are frank in their admissions that all are fit for the fray. The change in the temperatures to something like Winter weather has helped to put the men in form.

Nothing will be done by either team which in any way might endanger the players, so those who find themselves seated about the horseshoe, or in the seats which blocks the opening way feel confident of witnessing a football struggle worth while.

YALE CROWD CONFIDENT.

Perhaps the most noticeable thing in connection with the game is the confidence that now prevails in New Haven. Where a week ago one could hear nothing but complaint as to the work of the team, coming from undergraduates, alumni and then down the line through the "townies" to the traveling public, now the condition is changed.

Something has happened to change all this. Look here for a share of the burdens of cheerfulness which prevails in the land of Eli, but luck was not enough to put backbone into the jellyfish gentlemen. Coach Shevlin's rush, push, hustle and fight has tasked outside the Yale bowl and spelled itself pretty generally over New Haven's settlings.

On the day of the Yale-Brown game, a gentleman who had seen about all Yale football for twenty years or more and who was present at the time Brown won, remarked:

"Of course, you understand we don't pretend to believe that Yale has a team; in fact, it is about as poor a bunch of players as I ever saw representing a college team." This with sadness and resignation.

SOME CHANGE FOR FALL.

The other Yale gentleman happened to be in Boston. "Ah," said he, "See that Princeton game. No? Well, you should have. Fine; pretty some team Yale!"

There you are; and in two weeks' time. Talk about form in horse-racing and pricking winners, football has been all lashed to the mast crying for help.

Then comes Tom Shevlin with that terse, peppery statement: "Just watch us, that's all." It seems to voice the sentiment of the Yale crowd. They now actually believe they have a chance, and when a Yale team gets that feeling it is worth watching, as Coach Shevlin suggests.

Tom Shevlin, famous, perhaps, of football, and doctor of energy, means that his men will make Harvard hustle as the Crimson has not been forced to this season, all of which is comforting brought from the spectators' standpoint.

ALL O. K. AT CAMBRIDGE.

If this is coming Cambridge, brimful of that feeling, then all that could be desired will be produced. Harvard's men are ready and eager. The squad contains an abundance of good material for second choice, and the varsity lineup looks to be stronger than that of Yale.

It stands to reason that the Crimson have the advantage of superior coaching, of the development of a system which has put it over Yale for the past three years, and held Yale on the two preceding games to a scoreless tie.

Harvard beat Yale in 1908, 4 to 0, and the following season the Elis doubled that score, this being the last time the Blue has scored a victory. In 1910 and 1911 the scores were blank. Then in 1913 Harvard pushed up a score of 39 to 0, and in 1913 made it stand 15 to 6. Last season it was a merry massacre, 36 to 0.

This record against Yale, coupled with the direction of Coach Haughton and his corps of able assistants, in a degree would seem to put the Crimson as a favorite, but in a season where flukes and fumbles have figured so disastrously, the bettors are careful. Even money looks to be about the figure when the kick-off comes.

SQUAD WINDING UP WORK.

Today's work at Cambridge will be about the last before the game, for tomorrow the team will perform in the Stadium for the classes, the students attending in a body, headed by a band, to cheer each member of the team, the coaches and down the line. This ceremony is inspiring and goes a long way toward putting heart in the men.

Friday will be spent at a country club and the squad will return to Cambridge in time to have a brief talk before trotting out on the field.

Yesterday's practice was probably the last real hard work the varsity will have before the game. Coach Haughton lined the regular team up against an eleven composed of the coaches and they went it hi most approved style. While this scrimmage didn't last long it was strenuous in the extreme. King scored a touchdown on a series of line plunges, carrying the ball over the goal line for about midfield.

Signal practice was thorough and much attention was paid to punting and drop-kicking.

Jack Ahern and Other Old Stars Polishing up B.C.

Word has been received from Norwich University that a large number of students will accompany the team to Boston for its battle with Boston College Thanksgiving Day.

Because of the early starting of the game, and the fact that an unusually large crowd is expected, it has been transferred from University Heights to Fenway Park.

Coach Steve Mahoney is to have the services of Jack Ahern, the former Cornell star, who coaches his ends for the Norwich game. He will also have help from several old B. C. players, including Jack Hartigan, Jim Gallagher and Jack Burke.

Loucks at Quarter for Poor Old Penn

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—Two things broke at Penn's practice on Franklin Field. "Shorty" Loucke was the coaches' first selection for quarterback, and, with the hope that Vreeland of last year's varsity backfield would be declared eligible by the faculty, the coaches started him at fullback.

The Pennsylvania faculty is sitting on Vreeland's case today. The coaches continued to strengthen the attack. Six new plays were put over in signal drill and then tried out in scrimmage.

De Paul Called On to Cancel Beverly

If De Paul School of Chicago abides by the rule of the National Interscholastic Football Championship of Chicago, it will have to cancel its post-season game with Beverly High, underlined for the Beverly green, December 6. Should De La S. F. C. have a ruling which prohibits defeated elevens from competing in interscholastic contests. De Paul lost to Englewood last Saturday and that's what is causing the fuss.

Tufts Squad Is Sound.

Tufts is getting into trim for its Thanksgiving Day combat with Worcester Tech. Coach Whalan reports his squad sound clear through, and is confident that it will cover itself with glory in its final game.

Aberg Finally Agrees to Wrestle Cutler

The matching of Alex Aberg and Charley Cutler to meet here for the world's Greco-Roman championship will be good news to the wrestling "fans" who have been watching the negotiations between the men ever since last February. The big Finlander, who recently clinched his title by defeating the younger Zbyszko, "finally tired" promoter Tuohey that he had agreed to the conditions set forth in the articles of agreement, which calls for a match to a finish, best two falls out of three, for the world's Greco-Roman championship. The purse will be divided 75 and 25 per cent.

Duffy Winner Over Coffey on a Foul

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Jimmy Duffy of Lockport, New York, won from Jim Coffey of Harlem on a foul at the Broadway Sporting Club. Coffey was warned by Referee Johnny Haukop in the second round for hitting low, but persisted in his tactics and in the seventh round, after he had deliberately struck Duffy low, Haukop disqualified him.

Duffy had all the better of the boxing. He carried a wicked punch in his right and in the seventh round, just before Coffey fouled him, shot a jab to Coffey's jaw that rocked his head. In the fourth round, when Duffy was hit low, he fell to the floor in agony and, although Coffey was warned, he struck low several times later on.

Lehigh Making Changes.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 17.—Maguiness is now Lehigh's first choice for work at fullback in the Lafayette game Saturday, while Hallowell will probably start at left halfback. Head Coach Keady states that he is well satisfied with the condition of his squad.

Cadets' Cripples in Fray.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Nayland, Ford and Reddell are back in the game of limping and the coaches are gleeful. The scrimmage was peppery hot, with Oliphant scoring two touchdowns for the varsity.

Lafayette Squad Hustling.

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 17.—Lafayette is being rounded into tip-top trim for its big annual game with Lehigh Saturday. Scott and Lake are expected to drop some goals from the field on the enemy.

BOWDOIN SQUARE BOWLERS HOPE FOR BREAK

About this time last year the then famous Chauncy "wrecking crew" had the City League race sewed up tight. The Chauncy bowlers are making another valiant effort to garner the championship, but this time they find themselves fighting eight other combinations, with each one having a good chance of drawing down the chief prize.

The way things stand, Murray is leading the push, with Chauncy on point behind. Then comes Court Street, four pegs from the top rung. Next is a four-cornered tie between Bowdoin Square, Rowe's Wharf, Faneuil Hall and Waldorf. One point back of this quartet is North Station and one point further down the line rests Casino. Loop appears to be the only team hopelessly outclassed.

As far as tonight's matches are concerned, interest is pretty evenly divided. There is no outstanding attraction, although the Rowe's Wharf-Chauncy and Faneuil Hall-Murray matches should attract big houses, as one of the combatants in each encounter is battling for the lead.

Bowdoin Square gets another golden opportunity to pull out of the mire and ride, when it goes against Loop on the latter's alleys.

As has been said before, Bowdoin Square has shown itself to be the class of the league to date, but just can't seem to get started.

Any team that can average 810 certainly deserves a better position than fourth four, especially when it is considered that no other team has yet approached the 800 notch. If things don't break pretty soon, the West End peggers will find themselves sadly distanced in the scramble.

Bowling Notes

A HOT battle is on in the Newton League tonight, as Arlington and North Gate will go to the lines evening. As Arlington drew the easier opponent, the "Irish water lilies" should pull away from North Gate.

THE highest individual pegger in the Newton League is a member of one of the tailend teams. In baseball they'd offer him one good man can make a team, but this evidently doesn't apply to bowling. Staley is the honor man and B. A. A. is his club.

GARFIELD has yet to win a game in the St. George League. Most of its games have been forfeited games. A team that shows up with interest ought to give up or be fired.

THE Order and Ruling Departments in the Library Bureau League. The Shippers are a close third, standing only three points in the rear. A little further down the line is another trio, the Filing and Finishing Department sharing the honors for fourth place. The rest of 'em are lost.

THE first tournament of the Greater Boston Chapter of the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association will be staged on the North Station Alleys in March. Seven-man teams are expected to put into operation, and present the finest and best material that Brick-Balke could offer.

HARRY HOWARD of the Casinos is moving along at a rapid clip in the City League. Howard has shaken off Hardy, his pesky jinx, and is now leading the individuals with the big mark of 108. Howard was once a "Bill" Beatty's mainstays last season.

BAKER is going great guns in the A. B. P. competition. When this roller started out in the 120's nobody was supposed to keep up the scintillating pace, but he is sticking and with a vengeance, too. Forty-twenty-six is a pretty nifty average.

THERE ought to be all kinds of action in the vicinity of Arch street tonight when the Furniture League bowlers square off on Fred Hartford's lanes. Three teams will take the word on even terms. The race is so close that even the tailender can jump into the lead.

Boxing Bouts Tonight

CLEVELAND—Jack Dempsey vs. Jack Dillon, 10 rounds, Cleveland Baseball Park.

PITTSBURGH—Jack Dempsey vs. Jack Dillon, 10 rounds, Pittsburgh Baseball Park.

BROWN IS TO PLAY ON COAST NEW YEAR'S DAY

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 17.—Brown University has accepted an invitation to meet the University of Washington on New Year's Day.

Brown will play on the Pacific coast, and a representative of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Association, was in conference here today with President Faunce, Athletic Director Marshall and Coach Robinson, when all details of the trip were arranged.

This will be the first time that distinctively eastern and western elevens have met on the gridiron. The trip will take three weeks and Brown will leave December 12.

EVERETT MEETS WALTHAM NOV. 27

Definite arrangements were made today for a game between the Everett and Waltham High School football teams, to be played at Fenway Park, November 27. The contest will start at 2 o'clock.

This agreement was made this morning, after a meeting between a committee from each school.

It was also announced that unless Lafayette High of Buffalo, N. Y., is heard from immediately, Everett will cancel its game with the Western New Yorkers, scheduled to take place at Buffalo, December 4.

On November 2 Everett sent a letter of acceptance to Lafayette's challenge, and when no reply was received inside a reasonable period the Everett authorities sent a telegram. This telegram was followed by two others, but still no reply was received.

Today Everett sent a fourth telegram, and unless an immediate answer is forthcoming the game will be called off. In this case Everett may possibly take on some local school on that date.

N.E. Winner to Be Sent to N.Y. for Title Hike

New England cross-country runners who aspire to compete in the national championship to be held in New York December 17 have been given the opportunity to compete in the event at very little expense by the New England A. A. A. U.

Secretary J. Frank Facey, in announcing the first annual New England championship will be run over the Franklin Park course Saturday, December 4, stated that the New England body has appropriated $125 to defray the expenses of the individual winner and the team winner to New York.

The regular New England championship prizes will be given the individual winners, a gold medal going to first, silver to second and bronze to third. If two or more teams enter a shield will be awarded the winning team.

Entries close November 28 with J. Frank Facey, No. 34 Prospect street, Cambridge.

Newton to Break Training.

While Waltham High is anxious to play off its game with Newton High and thereby decide contest as good as arranged for December 4, the indications are that the Newton squad will break training before that date. Anyhow, today it was reported there was only a slim chance of the game being played.

Langford and McVea Sign.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Sam Langford and Sam McVea, the two burly negroes, will clash in a ten-round affair at the American Sporting Club next Tuesday.

Bates Sticks to De Wever.

LEWISTON, Me., Nov. 17.—James De Wever of Portland has been re-elected captain of the Bates eleven for 1916.

Maroons Win in Manila.

MANILA, Nov. 17.—The University of Chicago nine defeated the Manila Americans, 3 to 1.

HERRICK TO PAY WRAY ON HIS CONTRACT

That Robert F. Herrick might handle the affairs of Herrick, the amateur director of Harvard's rowing destinies, and "Hill" Haines, the Union Boat Club coach, and professional assistant to Herrick.

Two months ago the indications were that Thomas D. Lavelle, attorney for Wray, would take the matter into court and fight for his contract right, but Herrick, millionaire attorney and rowing enthusiast, came forward and guaranteed the fulfilment of Wray's contract.

ATTORNEY LAVELLE MUM.

Assistant District Attorney Lavelle has just admitted the truth of the story.

He refused to make any comment on the matter, nor would he allow Wray to be interviewed. When it is just what Wray would have to do in order to receive the money. Mr. Lavelle replied "nothing."

Mr. Lavelle also made it plain that Wray can set back in his library and read all he cares to, can go out on the river and row, but does not have to perform any work, other than active coaching at Harvard.

"Herrick," said an intimate friend of Wray's, "wanted to be at the top of the heap in Harvard rowing. He sought to be the head coach, and, to accomplish that purpose, he has seen fit to guarantee a large contract and assume responsibilities.

"Wray has always been prepared to live up to his contract—but only as head coach of the Harvard crews."

CALLS WRAY HAS-BEEN.

"Wray," said a former Harvard crew captain, "was a mighty fine fellow and an excellent sculler. However, he is not the best rowing coach on sweep rowing.

"Mr. Herrick, on the other hand, is an accomplished sweep oarsman. He taught the Harvard second crew all it knew two years ago and brought it into good enough shape to win at Henley.

"He really developed its wonderful stroke, which brought such favorable comments from all foreign rowing critics and made the crew one of the strongest that ever represented Harvard.

"Herrick will command the respect of the boys under him, while Haines, who will assist him, is a master of sweep rowing and one of the best teachers in the country."

Warhop Picked Up by Miller Huggins

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Little Jack Warhop, who was one of the mainstays of the Yankees' pitching staff for several years, will have a chance to re-establish himself as a major league pitcher. Word was received from the West that he will go South with the Cardinals, and, if he proves his ability, will be offered a contract.

Warhop was released from the Yankees in the middle of last season to the Richmond (International League) Club, but was given a chance at another release, which was granted. Not satisfied that his career was over, Warhop applied to Miller Huggins for a chance to prove his ability, and Huggins assented.

Herr Garry Still Boss.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 17.—August Herrmann has been re-elected president of the Cincinnati Reds. Harry Stephens was elected secretary and Louis C. Widrig, a new director, was chosen treasurer.

Another Boxing Tourney.

The athletic department of St. Patrick's T. A. Society announces an open amateur boxing tournament for Friday night at Clark Hall in Brockton. There will be mettos in the 115 and 158-pound classes.

Mass Meeting on for Tonight at the Union

Harvard's first football mass meeting of the season will be held tonight in the Union.

The chief speakers will be Head Coach Haughton, who will roll out one of his characteristic talks, and Captain Mahan, who will warn to beware of overconfidence and urge all present that the undivided support of the undergraduates is necessary if Harvard is to turn back the invading Yale hordes.

The football squad will be present as honored guests.

YOU MAY KNOW CATARRH BY ITS SYMPTOMS

You Can Relieve the System From This Disagreeable Disease By Treating It Through the Blood.

Eminent specialists are agreed that Catarrh is an infection of the blood. No matter how contracted, it infects the blood, and must be treated through the blood. The most usual symptoms of Catarrh in the earlier stages are swelling and infection of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat. There is an increased flow of mucous in the nostrils and a continual dripping in the throat. The mucous membrane is irritated until it becomes raw and sore. Scabs form in the nostrils, clogging air passages and making breathing difficult. These disagreeable features, however, only mark the earlier stages of the disease. Unless the Catarrh is checked, the dripping of mucous will cause stomach and intestinal troubles. Food will not digest, but ferment and poison the system; indigestion becomes chronic, the stomach is acid, headaches are frequent, daily, the victim has a disagreeable odor. It affects the ears, and deafness may result. Hawking and spitting are continual. In fact, it is a disagreeable feature of Catarrh that the victim is not only a terrible sufferer, but the habits resulting from Catarrh are so disagreeable and unsanitary as to be obnoxious to others.

Do not trust sprays and lotions. Dismiss the idea that you can cure Catarrh by rubbing petroleum preparations in the nostrils. Menthol and Thymol, which form the large part of these ointments, may give slight relief by clearing the air passages, but it is only temporary. S. S. S. assists in relieving Catarrh by going direct to the seat of the trouble and cleansing the blood of its accumulations of poisons. It helps to banish Catarrh by aiding Nature. Catarrh fills the blood with germs—it carries these to the whole system, it so weakens the blood that its power to ward off disease materially lessened. The action of S. S. S. is to tone up the blood, revitalize, strengthen, cleanse and renew it. It goes back to the first principle of health, by making the blood vigorous, healthy and clean. It is this hope of strength that S. S. S. holds out for sufferers from Catarrh, Rheumatism, Blood and Skin Diseases. The first step is to go to your druggist and secure a bottle of S. S. S. and take it according to directions. Then write to the Medical Department of the Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Ga., for advice. Tell them your symptoms, how long you have been troubled, etc. One thing we would impress upon you is that S. S. S. is a purely vegetable remedy and cannot possibly injure in any way. It contains no mercury or habit-forming drug; it has given relief in thousands of cases during the past fifty years. Don't fail to ask for special advice if you wish it. Free. —Advertisement.

WHITE WINNER IN FIRST SAYLOR TAKES THE COUNT

Class has always had a habit of telling in sport, whether man or beast be the entrant. A good man can come back; so can a good horse. Let a "mutt" be beaten once and all his conqueror has to do in order to repeat the next time he faces him is to look him in the eye.

With these few words out of the way we will state that in last night's fistic production at the Atlas A. A., between Charley White of Chicago, who is doubtless the best 133-pound bifffoy in the world, and Milburn (Young) Saylor of Indianapolis, another bona fide lightweight, one not as dangerous as said White, but one who is swatting at a chipper clip in scrapdom and who is rated with the game's elite, the aforementioned White was the victor via the knockout route in less than two minutes' fighting. A packed house turned out for the battle between the two western lightweights.

It was a rattling brilliant [illegible] the classy Master White pulled off [illegible] very same arena a couple weeks ago [illegible] was outfought, outgeneraled and outmaneuvered by Saylor [illegible] young gent he is keen to keep in such a hurry last night.

CLASS TELLS OVER MORE

Class told in last night's [illegible] won it for White. He was known to be the classy performer of the two coming [illegible] the way Saylor mastered him up to the occasion of their midsummer [illegible] ment at the Atlas A. A. Boston's [illegible] players aboard White. Furthermore, they laid odds that seemed terrifically long. Yes, even a 10 to 1 was obtainable. The proved odds laid well, as all bets were collectable in less than two minutes after the bell sluiced the two warriors on their journey.

The Atlas A. A. officials gave it out that Saylor weighed in at 132 pounds at 5 o'clock and that White scaled at 133½ at 5 o'clock. Which proves what the AMERICAN has contended, that White and Saylor, not to forget Joe Mandell, Johnny Dundee and one or two others —not more than one or two others, where A No. 1 talent is considered—are up-and-up, bona fide lightweights.

The 1 mix of the division was raised to 135 pounds some time back. Battling Nelson gave the head and front of the way Saylor mastered him up to in his career, would have to pass out a leg or an arm in order to get down to 135. Nelson he elevated the limit of the class two pounds, and there it has stuck ever since.

LET'S GO BACK TO 133.

To drift a trifle, let's insert that if Champion Freddie Welsh [illegible] pounds, either as a 133 or 135 [illegible] let's get back to the old original limit and crowd out of the running the welterweights who have horned in and who have been pulling down so much money.

Willie Ritchie has outgrown the 133 notion so far that he recently announced he was out to win laurels among the welterweights.

Ted (Kid) Lewis, a great ringster, isn't a lightweight, so shouldn't fight at 133. He's a welter who has to work and husk for the more weight [illegible] do it.

Jimmy Gardner and Owen Moran operate with them [illegible] be managed to reduce his frame so as to come in at the proper figure.

The 135 pound class [illegible]

BOXING BRIEFS and GOSSIP

Atlas A. A. Results.

Charley White of Chicago knocked out Milburn (Young) Saylor of Indianapolis, 2nd round.
Harry Carlson of Brooklyn defeated Jimmy Flynn of Brooklyn, eight rounds, decision.
Henry Hall and Joe Brown, draw, six rounds.
Sammy Stern defeated Barney Snyder, six rounds, decision.

Welterweights Ted (Kid) Lewis of England and Jimmy Duffy of Lockport, N. Y., will clash in next week's feature attraction at the Atlas A. A.

The prelims will be pulled by Walter Butler of Revere and Wommy McFarland of the North End, eight rounds; "Kid" Lee of Chelsea and Joe Peters of Cambridge, six rounds; and Sammy Stern of Boston, and Teddy Murphy of the West End, six rounds.

Harry Carlson, that very good looking Brooklyn lefty, was the big noise in the Atlas A. A. show. That was because the White-Saylor fuse was spelled as usual.

Carlson was in against a miniature foe, Shannon, in "Brooklyn Jimmy" Flynn. Jimmy is short and squatty and, against a fighter, would probably show to advantage.

Against Carlson, Flynn never had a chance, and that, despite his brief advantage. Harry found out early all there was to know about Jimmy. Hence, proceeded to use his left, and the way he jabbed Jimmy, thereby putting on his finishing touches, made us think of Jim Corbett and Abie Attell.

Yes, Carlson is almost boxing to come through. He got the big award of last night, and well earned it, too. Harry is warm enough to stay [illegible] fight, frames [illegible] fight.

Henry Hall and Joe Brown, two husky colored boys, put up a fairly good six round bout. Slow in spots, it was warm enough to stay [illegible] periods. They draw and that's the verdict that will be handed up.

In the semi-windup Sammy Stern [illegible] in front of a near-house with Barney Snyder. Sammy was too strong and too dog gone willing to [illegible] suit Barney. At that Barney really did his best work after Sammy ran up a wide edge. The decision went to Stern.

White and Saylor were legitimate lightweights [illegible] 133-pounders — when they squared off. Not that they made that figure at ringside. They didn't, till both proved they could have come in at 133 ringside had it been necessary.

Doubtless the scrap would have gone the limit, and possibly beyond would have landed the victor if [illegible] Indianapolis lad had not shown such poor judgment in [illegible] certain death the way he opened up and tore in after Charley.

White never looks real bad, but any time he doesn't look like an 18-karat workman is when a battle is ageing and he's lost his pep.

Frosh, he gave Saylor the best he had in stock and it was all over in less than two minutes.

Granting that everything was on the up-and-up, the Atlas A. A. should have had it known in advance that Charley White was coming over from New York to run the main bout.

N. B.—Chicago's fight crowd ran its own game into oblivion and it's never coming back. So, why let any of them, even Nate Lewis, a clean-cut stripper of a sportingman, do any dictating here.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 17.—Dick [illegible] captain of the Dartmouth [illegible] has watched Worthington [illegible] left end and placed [illegible] Dussoso behind the line [illegible] worked well in the day's scrimmage and look fair to be the combination going in against Syracuse in Green's final big battle of the season.

The fifteen minutes scrimmage with the new lineup on duty proved a particularly spicy one. Dussoso called the plays rapidly, using excellent judgment in the barge and also got the pigskin away from him readily. Worthington also showed to advantage in his new position.

The varsity scored two touchdowns on the scrubs. For the first time in several weeks the regulars handled the second eleven pretty much as it pleased. It forced the battling combination and its plays were marred by [illegible] fumbling.

Hall, Dolson quarterback on the 1912 team has joined the staff of coaches. He is [illegible] today with Dussoso [illegible] extremely good to him and [illegible] youngster should be a star of the first magnitude at the position by the time Syracuse is met.

Young Ahearn to Box Gibbons Up in St. Paul

By ED. CURLEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Young Ahearn at last gets a chance to earn some real money. The Canadian middleweight has been signed up to fight Mike Gibbons in the one thing phantom, ten rounds. The arena of the battle will be laid in St. Paul, where Mike lives, and the time will be either December 8 or 9.

The men will weigh in at 158 pounds ringside, so as to make the scrap a real middleweight affair. The main and most vital part of the battle is that Ahearn will receive $5,000, with the privilege of a liberal percentage.

There is a possibility that the Minnesota Boxing Commission will allow the referee to give a decision, and in that case the winner will be acknowledged the middleweight champion of the world. Al McCoy notwithstanding. It seems that the western bodies that govern boxing have been all heard of McCoy's wonderful, or rather terrible, skill in the ring. What they have learned has killed Al's chances being recognized in the woolly lands as champion. They absolutely decline to stand for it, that's all.

The only [illegible] part of the affair will be the referee's decision, for the ringside is in Michigan's own little town. In the first place it would be hard for a native to give a decision against his brother villager, especially if the bout were close.

I Buy Out My Strongest Competitor

Some year or so ago a coterie of tailors formed a tailoring organization, styling themselves James MacGregor, Inc., incorporated under Massachusetts State laws. They went out in the market and bought goods, hired cutters, tailors, etc., including some of my former employees, and located in Cleveland, Indianapolis, Gloversville, N. Y., Providence, R. I., Hartford, Conn., and Boston, Mass.

They closed up about a month ago. I buy their entire stock from the receiver at about 20% of what they paid for it. All their uncalled for suits, overcoats, odd trousers, coats and vests, and such garments as were in process of construction at the time of their assignment came to Mitchell, The Tailor.

An analysis of the reason they discontinued leads me to believe that they paid too much for their cloths. They bought well but unwisely, paying the long price for expensive merchandise to sell in suits around $25 and $30, which, doing business their way, showed little profit. Their specialty was worsteds and high priced silk mixtures, fine Kersey coatings, expensive plaid backs, and a general line of fabrics that would be cheap at $25 to $30.

This is the class of merchandise that I take possession of. Some of it is hardly three months from the boat. I was already loaded with goods. The only thing that caused me to purchase now was the fact that it was an unheard of price for merchandise, that I paid about 20%, and the cloths were mostly dark, serviceable patterns. Wears Ring of Byzantine Empress

Florence Short, Who Plays Passion in "Experience," Has Ring Which is Said to Have Belonged to Theodora

Miss Florence Short, as she appears in "Experience," wearing her precious emblematic blue stone ring, which was given her by a friend who found it on the Asiatic side of the Bosporus, where the famous Empress of the Eastern Roman Empire lived in the Summer in a wonderful palace built for her by the Emperor.

F[illegible] ... was carved on it, and was undoubtedly emblematic of the Island of Cyprus, [illegible] was a native of that island of olive groves, which is carried by the blue waters of the Mediterranean Sea. The ring was found by a friend of Miss Short's several years ago on the Asiatic side of the Bosporus. It was there that Theodora lived in the Summer time, in a palace built by the Emperor.

Theodora was a notable figure thirteen hundred years ago. A former circus girl, she was raised from the arena to the throne of the Byzantine emperors, and became the mistress of the world. It is one of those odd chances of fate that the ring of Theodora should be the property of a famous stage beauty of today. Many efforts have been made to secure this ring of the curious girl empress from Miss Short but she will not part with it. She believes the ring has some of the force of Theodora, who was noted for her unbridled passions and was so vindictive in revenge that, [illegible] Casseres, declares "she was more of a den on than a girl."

It was due to Morris Gest that Miss Short wears the ring while playing Passion. One day at the Boston Opera House, while waiting for the Primrose Path scene, Miss Short showed Mr. Gest the ring, and explained that it had been the property of Empress [illegible]. Mr. Gest was [illegible] Miss Short to wear the ring as the Empress a few years ago, but [illegible] the trouble it carries [illegible] [illegible] that the wearer of the ring [illegible] misfortune. [illegible] Passion while [illegible] for the part. Little [illegible] ever escape. Mr. Gest, Miss Short [illegible] the ring and quite relieved [illegible] Glendinning, who was playing Youth, by the [illegible] curse are buried at [illegible] settled the matter [illegible] wearing the ring [illegible] save, as Mr. Gest left positive instructions that Miss Short [illegible] so.

Thursday last Mr. Gest received a note stating the Turkish official wished to purchase the ring, but it is needless to say that Miss Short still has the ring, and that it is not for sale.

The desire of the Turkish government to secure the ring may be due to the fact that there is a legend of the most [illegible] which says that when [illegible] of her own faith [illegible] it will mean the fall of the [illegible] tion that Theodora [illegible] to be a [illegible]

The Wonderful Adventures of the Sunshine Family in the Land of Make-Believe

Copyright, 1912, New England Newspaper Publishing Company

By GEORGE WASHINGTON SUNSHINE.

[illegible] New England Newspaper Publishing Company

My Dear Children:

Four days more and my LITTLE Son, Master Peter Sunshine will [illegible] to stay JUST as long as you want to HAVE him stay.

That is, unless in the meantime he meets up with an automobile accident.

I had to caution Peter this morning about eyespeeding.

I believe I told you that Peter goes to Boston from the Land of Make-Believe [illegible] every [illegible] 1916 model White.

The White is one of the fastest cars on the market. I do hope you will be able to find room for it somewhere about the house.

Well for the past [illegible] Peter has been running [illegible] hens up and down these streets without regard to safety.

He always takes his crowd with him, too. When I saw the White [illegible] at the Public Library this morning it looking for all the world like an old-fashioned barge on the [illegible] Sunday school picnic, I [illegible] make out the individuals, but the car appeared to be chock-a-block full of all the boys and girls in town. And HOW they cheered! One long, continuous scream.

I said at the wheel, but he was paying so much attention to Little Bo Peep, who sat beside him, that he LARGELY missed running down a traffic policeman, a letter carrier, a messenger boy, a hen, a Newfoundland dog, and, finally, Mother Goose herself.

Mother Goose called me up late this afternoon, with a word of caution.

"If you don't take that machine away from Peter," she said, "and place it in the garage until Saturday morning, I am afraid he may have to WALK to Boston. The authorities here are pretty easy, Mr. Sunshine, but they won't stand for anything, and particularly at the hands of non-tax-paying foreigners."

I will [illegible] at the driveway until Peter came home with his party. With him were Little Bo-Peep, Simple Simon, Brian O'Lin, Mistress Mary, Jack and Jill, Tommy Tittlemouse, the Queen of Hearts, Jack Horner, Tom Tucker and Daffy Down Dilly. In a seven-passenger car!

The young people were so merry [illegible] did not care to reprimand Peter before them. Instead, I [illegible] from all into the house and had Cook prepare a delectable luncheon. It was quite like the Last Day of School. Then they played games.

It is one of my rules, by the way, NEVER to reprimand one of the children in the presence of company. I don't believe in breaking a child's heart or spirit, or making him feel CHEAP.

When the boys and girls had gone I spoke to Peter like one pal to another and I explained the terrible difficulty in making him see the wisdom of putting the car away, too, until it is time to leave for the Sunday ANDIRON office.

Certainly, Peter," I said to him, "when you take the car on Sunday, to join Mamma and Martha, you DO not want to have it looking like a used car, of 1913 model. You want to 'show class.' You want people to understand that you are a boy [illegible] AMOUNTS to something.

And THAT's how we dressed up THIS

I still have an occasional doubt concerning the good sense of remaining in New England ALL Winter.

Peter Piper, the boy who achieved international fame merely by picking a peck of pickled peppers, gives me cold creeps by singing a mournful little ditty which goes like this

And north wind doth blow
And we shall have snow,
And what will poor Robin do then?
Poor thing!
He'll sit in a barn,
To keep himself warm,
And hide his head under his wing.
Poor thing!

I suppose the thing to do is to BRAVE. I suppose we WILL brave snow. Very likely! And perhaps for Thanksgiving. Well, if you BOYS and GIRLS of New England can stand it, I don't know why I should be afraid. Perhaps, after you have taken me out on a sled a few times, or sleigh-riding, or skating—do YOU skate?—I shall be wishing for twelve months, or fifty-two weeks, of Winter in each and every year. But I HARDLY expect that.

Sometimes I think Peter Piper is jealous of MY Peter, and of Martha, and Baby Bud, and Mrs. Sunshine and me. I reckon that, if we should suddenly ask Bill to come along with us, he would sing a different tune. Isn't there a fable somewhere which tells about a Fox, who, because he could not quite reach the luscious grapes on a certain vine, loudly and boldly declared them to be SOUR grapes? Perhaps it is a case of sour grapes with our friend Peter Piper. I believe the boy's disposition may have been soured by pickled peppers!

Hark! THERE is young Mr. Peter Piper, now, coming up the garden walk. Today he appears to have a NEW song. It is no more cheerful than the other. Hear him!

COLD and raw the north wind doth blow,
Bleak in the morning early;
All the hills are covered with snow,
And Winter's now come fairly.

Wouldn't THAT give you the shivers? B-r-r-r-r-r-r-r-r!

I DO hope your house is warm, but if it isn't, the Sunshines will warm it, fast enough, with seven tons of kindness, seven tons more of thoughtful consideration, and ninety tons of love.

Mary Baird Rebels Against Her Employer

"Gustus," she pleaded, seizing his arm; "don't talk to me so."

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XXV.

Copyright, 1913, by the Star Company.

As Reeves asked his question Mary Baird recoiled as if he had struck her. She did not answer a different form.

"And how do you know I am not engaged?" he insisted.

"Because—because," she faltered, "I never thought that you would—that you could—ever care——"

She stopped, arrested by the look on his face.

"Well—you see how mistaken you were," he returned.

"You mean—you mean," she stammered, "that it's really true?"

"Of course it is!" he asserted. "And why not? Just because a man's forty-five and been lonely for years don't mean that he's never to have things the way he wants them, does it? I am going to marry Miss Hardy," he added, matter-of-factly.

The woman drew a step nearer, her eyes flashing. "And me," she reminded him. "What about me?"

"Oh, you can go on living here," he said easily, as he walked into the dining room.

But she followed him, closing the door behind her so that any one coming to the kitchen porch would not overhear what she had to say.

"Wait a minute," she commanded. "Do you mean that I'm to stay here as housekeeper—just like I have always?"

The man flushed. "Well, yes," he said awkwardly, "you can stay on and make yourself useful. You've always had an easy time here, Mary."

"And when there'll be another person to work for," she demanded, "what about that

MARY BAIRD DEFINES HER INTENTIONS

"So you're afraid of the work of one other person, are you?" he sneered.

"It's not the work I'm afraid of, Gustus Reeves and you know it," she declared. "But you're not going to put a mistress over me to boss me—do you hear? I'm not going to have a child of a girl rule me after all these years! And I'll tell her so, too! Understand!"

Augustus Reeves came close to her, his face distorted with rage, his lower jaw thrust forward. He drew down his brows until they protected above his small gray eyes. His red hair seemed to bristle.

"You'll do as I tell you!" he exclaimed. "Remember that! You'll stay right here, just where you are, and you'll work as you've always done—or I'll know the reason why!"

She clenched her fists. "And if I won't—what then?" she asked, defiantly.

He showed his teeth in an ugly snarl. "Then," he threatened, "you'll starve—that's all. If I tell folks what you are, who'll take you in—you and your idiot brat!"

The last explanation was so shrill that even the angry man was startled. "You wouldn't do that!" she burst forth. "You wouldn't stop supporting him — your own flesh and blood——"

"Shut up!" he roared. "We'd believe any tale of yours when I'd said my say and told them that I was sorry for you in your trouble and had taken care of you both for years! Who's believe you, I say?"

"Gustus! Gustus!" she pleaded, seizing him by the arm. "Don't talk so! Don't! You always promised that some day perhaps you'd marry me, and I've always hoped you would—even when you refused again and again I hoped you would. Haven't I been everything to you all these years? Haven't I stayed right here and worked for you? Haven't I been faithful in my work?"

"And what about what I've done?" he argued. His manner changed suddenly. Angry as he was, he would rather settle this matter calmly, here and now, once for all. "Listen, Mary," he went on. "Haven't I given you a good home? Didn't I send you to a safe place when your baby was born? Didn't I pay for all your needs there, and haven't I paid for keeping your child in a good home for feeble minded children.

[illegible] been sent [illegible]

tution? Has there been a single month that I haven't given you the money to send for his keep there?

"Remember all these things, and remember that your life has not been the kind that most folks would overlook. Most people would despise you if they knew the truth. I've seen to it that they didn't know. Not a soul in Milton suspects a thing against us.

HE PLINGS HER PAST IN HER FACE

"You'd have been ruined if they had!" she retorted.

"No, no!" he denied, "for you weren't any innocent young girl when you came here, but a widow who knew life. And folks will forgive a rich man anything. It's the woman that gets the cold shoulder. If a man has money he can make people believe anything he says. Now, let's be sensible. You hold your tongue and I'll hold mine. You behave yourself to my wife when she comes here to live and show her how I like my house run. I've told Miss Hardy you'll teach her a lot."

"Gustus," she begged, "it's almost kill me to see anybody else here! Don't make me stay. I love you, Gustus. Let me go away quietly, and just send me enough money for the boy till I can get work to do."

Her tone was wheedling, her manner servile.

"Send you hush money, you mean!" Reeves suggested roughly. "Oh, I won't. Here you stay, and if you don't do as I say—well, the worse for you! You've got no need to bring taken care of that you don't stop to think how you'd be without a cent, and you with no trade and no reputation, and not even any good looks left. Now go and get dinner—and hurry!"

She went as a whipped dog would have gone. Yet when she had shut the door between her and the man who had temporarily cowed her, there came into her eyes an evil gleam that would have reminded a keen observer that in her veins ran Indian blood—the blood of the race that never forgets and never forgives an injury.

To Be Continued.

Substituting electric power for steam in factories directly affects the health of the community, for it does away with smoke. Since electric motors began to be used in the industries of the northern part of Lancashire, England, not only have the twenty-four chimneys formerly required to steam power gone out of use, but, owing to the convenient supply of electric power, twenty-seven new chimneys and others wise would have been erected have not been put up.

MANY CHILDREN SEE PLANNING EXHIBIT

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO BE GIVEN PRIZES FOR CITY PLANNING ESSAYS

The AMERICAN offers to schoolboys and girls of Greater Boston five prizes of Five Dollars each for the best essay, not to exceed one hundred words, telling "What impressed me most at the City Planning Exhibition,"

The prize winning letters will be printed in the Sunday AMERICAN. Address letters to City Planning Editor, Boston AMERICAN.

Attendance yesterday at the City Planning exhibition in the new wing of the State House almost doubled that of the first day.

Noticeable among those coming to the exhibit are scores of school children, with note books and pencils taking notes on displays that interest them.

Directors of the exhibit express great satisfaction at the interest taken by the young citizens upon whom the welfare of the future city is to depend.

In accordance with a suggestion by John E. Lathrop, director of the American City Bureau Exhibit, the Boston AMERICAN offers prizes for the children.

As the AMERICAN will print some of the prize essays in next Sunday's paper all compositions must be handed in by 4 o'clock Friday evening. Girls and boys, therefore, who intend to compete for the prizes should visit the show today or tomorrow.

APPEALS TO YOUNG.

The exhibition in many of its departments, has been especially arranged to appeal to Young America. Boys belonging to the Junior Municipal League and Boy Scout have added much to the general efficiency.

Fifty or sixty scouts have at various times acted as guides, as door keepers and as distributors of literature. Two of the scouts have remained constantly at the information table and direct visitors to any exhibit.

In the room occupied by the Woman's Municipal League young boys explain the difference between clean and unclean stores, and housing conditions as found in crowded parts of Boston.

"This exhibition is as much for the future citizens of Boston as it is for their elders, and we are grateful for valuable assistance given by the young people in making the show a success," declares one of the directors.

Among the visitors recorded yesterday were dozens of school teachers, groups of ministers, college presidents and professors, as well as physicians and nurses.

TEACHERS AT EXHIBIT.

President Emeritus Eliot appeared twice, and the Mayor of Stamford, Connecticut, sent his representative "to get a vision," as he expressed it. The Paulist Fathers attended in a body.

New charts and pictures, placed in the same room with the Boston AMERICAN exhibit, brought attention to the fact that the care and healthful rearing of babies is a vital part of the city planning.

Today's program:

Exhibition open 10 A. M. to 10 P. M.

Motion and stereoption pictures on subjects related to improvement of town and cities, including showing of resources of the communities about Boston. 12 o'clock noon, 2 P. M., 8 P. M.

3 P. M. Public Meeting—"Fire Prevention," illustrated address by John A. O'Keefe, Fire Prevention Commissioner.

"Town and City Night—8 P. M. Conference of Mayors, chairmen of selectmen and interested officials of towns and cities of the Metropolitan District. Chairman, Hon. James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston. Addresses—"Who Pays for City Planning?" Nelson P. Lewis, chief engineer of Board of Estimate and Apportionment, New York; "City Planning in Springfield," F. A. Stacey, Mayor of Springfield; general discussion, led by Christopher Harrison, city engineer, Everett; special motion pictures and slides illustrating the topics of the evening.

Holtz Speaks to Dry Goods Men

The monthly meeting of the New England Dry Goods Association was held last night at the Copley-Plaza and was attended by about fifty members of the organization. Patrick O'Connell, of the E. T. Slattery Co., presided.

The speakers who were heard on the subject of "The Increasing Cost of Doing Business," were Max Holtz of the staff of the Dry Goods Economist, and Professor Edwin F. Gay, dean of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

"The theory that tenants and landlords will together gamble on the possibility of changeable conditions and agree on a minimum amount of rent which, will provide that when business is good the landlord will receive a fair amount and when poor the minimum amount will be accepted, is the only solution of the problem of rent," declared Mr. Holtz.

"When a merchant signs a lease for property he is neglecting a valuable asset if he does not have inserted a clause which will permit him to sub-let part of his building if the needs arise."

On the subject of wages being one of the means of increasing cost, Mr. Holtz said that merchants are losing control of one phase of this question because powers beyond their control are fixing a minimum wage. He declared they should "organize their business so that they can accept this principle of their own free will and not because of legislative enactment."

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE; OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

Whole World Waits for United States to Initiate Peace

THE AMERICAN in its appeals to Americans to lead the forces of peace against this race-destroying war has said that fourteen million of the efficient, the best, the flower of the race, had already been lost to the world. It now appears that within the last two weeks almost another million have gone.

In its appeals for peace the AMERICAN has declared that soon women, old men and children would be the cannon fodder. Now France and Germany are both shooting women, and in Serbia the women and children and old men are resisting the advance of the Bulgarians, Austrians and Germans into their fatherland.

The invader is making no distinction between age or sex. The white-haired man is falling beside his son, and the women and children beside the men. No mercy is being asked and no mercy is being given.

The rigors of war are harder against the civil population in arms than against the uniformed soldier. An heroic, historic nation, a branch of the white race, is thus being extirpated root and branch.

In our appeals to Americans to stir themselves, we have warned them that this war meant such a reduction in the purchasing power of the people of Europe, both by their impoverization and their enforced economies, that if the war continued much longer the American people would be staring calamity in the face.

Today we are a great manufacturing and exporting nation. We are depending more and more upon the sales to foreign customers and less and less upon our own home market.

The purchasing power of our foreign customers is an absolute essential to our prosperity. The wealth of the world is the source of our trade and our profits.

Now it appears in the current news dispatches that Prime Minister Asquith and David Lloyd George, England's great men, have publicly warned the people of England that they must reduce their expenses to the barest necessaries for the support of mere life itself, and these gentlemen propose to enforce that warning by a system of taxation which shall take away from the English people everything for the use of the government, except what is absolutely necessary to support existence, and all that is taken away is proposed to be burnt up in rifles and cannons destroying human life.

The German general government has also limited the use of meat and put the German population upon bread made of potatoes.

Everywhere in Europe economies such as have never been heard of in America are now being practiced, and science and necessity will combine to develop more and more economy until Europe will soon be more hopeless as customers of America than the four hundred million Chinese in Asia.

What do these economies among the peoples of Europe mean to America? They mean that if the war goes on, and the necessity of economy is confirmed, that the European peoples will cease to be our customers, both because they have no purchasing power and because their requirements for expense will be so small that they will not want our trade.

It will mean more. It means that all the competitive markets of the world will be flooded with goods made by labor which will be cheaper than any labor we have ever known before. One hopeful condition in the world, one condition most promising to American participation in foreign trade, was the steady advance in the conditions of the workingmen in Europe toward the standard of our American workmen.

Less and less was it true that European labor spelled "cheap labor."

European laborers were asserting their industrial and political power. They were exacting a greater and greater share of the profits of their labor. They were demanding more and more of the material pleasures of life.

Their vision was expanding, their needs were expanding, their wages and their purchasing powers were rising.

The difference between the labor cost of a European and an American made article was becoming less every day.

We were responding to that condition by a constantly expanding foreign trade.

But now this war is reversing the progress of civilization, is plunging the labor of Europe back into the old darkness.

The difference between the labor cost of an American made article and a European made article will again become abysmal. And these lower labor costs will drive our goods out of the foreign markets.

Our manufacturing establishments whose prosperity is predicated upon the foreign markets will face bankruptcy, and the readjustments which must follow will be calamitous for this country.

These considerations are vital to our prosperity, but serious as they may be, they do not involve the most serious consequences of this war.

There seems to be no prospect that peace proposals will rise from the belligerents themselves.

This war is slowly threatening to spread its conflagration throughout the world.

The current dispatches show that the central Powers have opened the railroad from Berlin to Constantinople, and the railroad is uninterrupted from Constantinople to Bagdad.

This means that the Mohammedan hordes of Turkey will be marshalled, armed, equipped and trained by German efficiency and sent against the Christian enemies of the central Powers.

HEY! MOVE UP THERE! YOURE TAKING UP THE WHOLE STREET
SAY! ARE YOU GOING TO MOVE THAT CAR UP OR WILL I HAVE TO BUMP IN TO YOU!
NOW! WILL YOU MOVE UP!
I'LL GET A COP HE'LL MAKE HIM MOVE UP!
SHOW HIM TO ME
OFFICER WILL YOU MAKE THAT FELLOW MOVE HIS CAR UP SO I CAN GET IN TO THE CURB!
MOVE UP! AND LET THIS MAN IN!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

Somebody Is Kidding

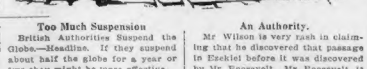
"The nation has won its position in the world without resorting to the habit of toting a pistol."—Bryan.

THE farmer folk of Lexington, according to the Doc,
What time the redcoats burned their homes and drove away their stock
Observed: "Oh! Well! Those Englishmen must have their little fun,"
And roosted on the old stone walls and never pulled a gun.
The Doc must know whereof he speaks he makes it good and strong,
But if he happens to be right—then history is wrong.

WHEN George the Third made up his mind to boost the tax on tea,
Our scared forefathers never dared to chuck it in the sea.
"Although he seems severe," they said, "the King is right, of course;
We mustn't draw a gun on him or show a sign of force."
The Doc's belief in what he says is steadfast and unshaken,
But it is plain that either he or history's mistaken.

WHEN Washington came down one night and crossed the Delaware
To filter into Trenton and to await the British there,
He told his valiant warriors, with a stern and savage frown,
"You mustn't use a musket while you're capturing this town."
The Doc would plainly have us believe this thing to be a fact,
But if it is—then history is somewhat inexact.

WE thought that Perry, John Paul Jones, Decatur and the rest
Believed a man did well to tote a gun beneath his vest.
We thought they won their victories because they were not scared
Of any foeman on the earth, if they were well prepared.
But if the Doc is right about the reason they succeeded,
We sort of think he didn't read the histories that we did!



Fortunately, Neither Are Large States.

Mr. Taft says that children should be spanked. This bodes ill for youngsters in Utah and Vermont.

Tut! Tut!

"The least decoration is the best in clothes. When in doubt omit—everything."—A professor of Art. Well, now Anthony Comstock is gone one might get away with it.

Just the Thing

Ostriches can travel over rough ground at the rate of 100 miles an hour. What a boon they would be to the Russian cavalry.

Too Late Now

We might have saved all the money we spent on the Panama Canal locks if we'd known that the canal was going to be securely tied up most of the time.

Too Much Suspension

British Authorities Suspend the Globe.—Headline. If they suspend about half the globe for a year or two they might be more effective.

Much Ado About Nothing

Why should the British people make such a fuss about not being permitted to get the war news? When they do get it they never can understand what it means.

An Authority.

Mr Wilson is very rash in claiming that he discovered that passage in Ezekiel before it was discovered by Mr. Roosevelt, it will be remembered, discovered the ten commandments.

Playing With Fire.

If we don't stop slapping John Bull's wrist he may get mad and write us a real sassy note some day.

Whole World Waits for United States to Initiate Peace

It means that in self-defence, the central Powers will be obliged to spread civil war in Asia and Africa, setting Mohammedan at the throat of Christian, setting Britain's Empire on fire, destroying the works of British civilization in Egypt and India.

It means that in desperation, Russia and England will call upon Japan and the hosts of Buddha. The yellow race will add murder—the murder of the white race—to the suicide which the white race is now desperately committing.

We cannot wait until either side of this unparalleled struggle has said "enough." Neither side will be willing to say it until they are so weak that they cannot articulate it.

The movement for peace must come from a Power beyond the theatre of war, from the nations not already involved, from America, the most powerful of those neutral nations.

If it does not come from America, we shall be responsible for the practical extinction of the white race, for the eclipse of our western civilization, the destruction of our own prosperity and our white man's place in the sun.

This nation could alone achieve peace. This nation, acting in conjunction and co-operation with other neutral nations, constitutes an overwhelming balance of power.

The neutral nations of the world, if united, would control resources so unlimited and exercise an influence so irresistible that neither the allies nor the Teutons would dare to incur their active opposition.

A power so great would make it possible not only to compel peace, but to impose conditions so just that peace could be permanent. Thus a second war, over the spoils of this war, or as a result of an unsatisfactory settlement of differences or partition of territory, would be averted.

The neutral nations are ready and willing to join a league for peace and justice.

Sweden has already plainly intimated her desire to see such a league formed.

All civilized nations within and without the war are awaiting the word of the United States.

Why, therefore, do we hesitate?

Why does our National Government "palter with the chance sublime"? In the whole recorded history of mankind there never was a duty more clear, an obligation greater in human affairs than this duty to do all we can to stop this war.

In the present instance, our bloodless participation alone would end this war.

Our moral force, our national resources exerted on one side, withheld from the other, could end this war without the shedding of one drop of American blood.

Why do we hesitate to end this war without going to war, when in the past we have actually gone to war on matters infinitely less vital to ourselves and to the world?

We have plunged into at least one war from purely material self-interest which was far less than the material self-interest which cries out to us for intervention.

Nations have, without hesitation, plunged into desperate wars for lesser interests than are involved in this situation.

Therefore, even upon the basis of material interest alone, we have ample precedent for taking the highest risk to stop this war.

But the salvation of a whole race, the greatest of the human races, is an object which ought to require ANY risk. Yet, fortunately, it does not appear necessary to involve the nation in any sacrifice OF BLOOD for the tremendous service to mankind which it has the sublime opportunity to render.

What would be thought of us as individuals if we stood on the sidewalk watching two men killing each other without taking any risk or making any effort to combine the bystanders for the purpose of separating them?

Those timid souls who dare never to take an unbeaten path, but must always follow where some one else has gone before, can find a thousand precedents for American intervention in this war.

The whole map of Europe has been made by interventions as will stop the slaughter of our white people. The existence of Turkey in Europe is due to the intervention of neutral countries during the war between Russia and Turkey. The existence of Holland, Belgium and Switzerland is due to the intervention of neutral countries at a critical moment in a life and death struggle. The national independence of Italy is due to the intervention of France when Italy was almost crushed by Austria.

The existence of the Balkan States—Servia, Rumania, Montenegro, Bulgaria—is due to the intervention of neutrals in the midst of their struggle for independence. The national existence of Greece has the same origin.

The independence of the South American republics and their safety from aggression are due to the Monroe Doctrine, which has its basis in the principle of intervention which the AMERICAN is now advocating.

We ourselves intervened in Mexico to prevent the slaughter of the Republic of Texas in 1848. We actually went to war and spilled American blood to stop the destruction of Spanish life and property in Cuba, although there is less Spanish blood in our veins than that of almost any European people.

We sent our soldiers to Pekin, the capital of China, to put down the Boxer rebellion, and in the far off East to stop the destruction of the life and property of an utterly exotic race.

Why do we not immediately begin the work of organizing the neutral nations? Such an organization we must have even if the war does not stop save through the exhaustion of the belligerents.

National arbitration can never come, The Hague tribunal can never be anything more than a palsied farce until the neutral nations bind themselves together to keep the peace and to judge the quarrels between the nations or to enforce the decrees of the peace tribunal.

With these two mighty objects—an organization to stop the war and to maintain peace—what more glorious and compelling opportunity ever confronted a nation?
